Congress Votes Alaska Into Union as 49th State

RALPH McGILL

Florida's Greatest Asset

Notes made as a vacation ends at a Florida beach:

From Jacksonville, where Prudential's vast white building climbs high toward the cumulus-crowded summer sky, on south to the Keys, there are signs of Florida's up and coming mood.

And behind the intangibles there is the basic reason for the confidence and the steady expansion of the state's economy—integrity in the state capitol. The Prudential building itself, a great boon to Jacksonville's boom, is a substantial and beautiful piece of evidence. At least two cities in deep-South states were removed from consideration as a site for the Southeastern headquarters because of a distaste for the politics and the general mood, or "climate" at their state houses.

Florida turns up its share of county corruption. But, for a long time now, Florida has had a tradition of integrity in her capitol. There have, of course, been exceptions, but they prove the rule. Incumbent LeRoy Collins, for example, followed Dan McCarty. Both gave the state complete integrity. Both contributed courage and neither truckled to the basest instincts in the political arena. Both proved election is possible without resorting to extremes in exploiting the race issue.

No Scandals

There are no scandals in the Florida state purchasing or insurance fields. Nor in the highway department. The revenue office also has a tradition of honesty. Bids, even in allocating the state insurance plums, are accepted practice. The state government in Florida is not the prey of mushrooming sales organizations as spawned in some neighboring states with each new administration. The Florida tax dollar almost certainly is spent with less waste and "bites" by political fast-buck operators than that of any other Southern state save Virginia.

It is an intangible, of course, to have an honest and able man as governor. But the results are not all intangible. Business organizations do not, of course, like to say why they chose one state over another because they do business everywhere. But, there are enough letters in private files to determine, without doubt, that integrity in Florida's state house is one of the greatest resources, or raw materials, the state possesses. The same is, or can be true, in any state. The climate, the beaches, the citrus and vegetable industries, and cattle are, to be sure, important assets. They all help explain why Florida is gaining population at a rate far more rapid than any Southeastern state. The increase, in fact, is one of the top ones in the nation.

But, there is no denying the fact that the state's present governor, the tradition of stability in government and taxes, and a lack of free access to the tax dollar by a horde of political parasites and "influence" boys, are the dominant assets—greater than the sunshine, beaches and orange juice.

Progress Made

Not much has been said about it, but no Southeastern state is making progress in education to come close to matching that of Florida. She already is well along in the construction of junior colleges, so necessary to the solution of higher education for the growing urban areas common to all states. Some were in operation last year and 10 more are in the works. They provide two years of college on a day - pupil basis. There are no dormitories, no football frills—just two years of education. This will be enough for some. For many others, it will lead to college and a career.

The University of Florida has made spectacular strides. It will make more. The faculty steadily is being strengthened. Further additions are in the making. It is pretty generally agreed that it already has outdistanced other Southeastern state universities with perhaps two exceptions, those of North Carolina and Virginia.

There are many problems, including that of a rural control of the Legislature in a time when rural populations decrease and urban problems are the greatest all states face. But intelligent, honest work is being done. And the governor is fighting for principle, not expediency, in attacking them.

An honest state house is by no means the least "resource" a state can have to attract people and industry.

Top Court Denies Quick Decision On Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused Monday to short-cut usual procedures and rule directly and promptly on an appeal from an order suspending desegregation in Little Rock.

But in so doing, the court said it was sure the U. S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis would act on the appeal "in ample time to permit arrangements to be made for the next school year."

In another unanimous action Monday, the Court struck down a $100,000 fine levied against the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People by an Alabama judge.

REFUSED ROSTER

Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones imposed the fine in Montgomery June 1, 1956, on the ground the NAACP was in contempt of court for failing to comply with an order for production of a list of its members. The judge also barred the NAACP from doing business in Alabama.

NAACP still faces legal battle in Alabama, Page 15.

Speaking for the Court, Judge Harlan said the order for production of the membership list "must be regarded as entailing a substantial restraint upon the exercise by petitioner's (NAACP) members of their right to freedom of association."

CITES LOWER COURT

Noting that the Little Rock desegregation case has been before the Court of Appeals in St. Louis in one form or another three different times, the Supreme Court said:

"That Court is the regular court for reviewing the orders of district court here concerned, and the appeal and the petition for a stay are matters properly to be adjudicated by it in the first instance.

"We have no doubt that the Court of Appeals will recognize the vital importance of the time element in this litigation, and that it will act upon the application for a stay of the appeal in ample

State Bars U.S. Control Over Guard

Gov. Griffin decreed Monday that the Georgia National Guard could not obey any federal orders until the governor certifies in writing that such order is constitutional.

The executive order apparently was issued to prevent the guard from being federalized in situations similar to last fall's Little Rock school integration trouble.

At the same time the governor issued a statement defending his pro-segregation speeches in Little Rock a few days before riots broke out there.

STRIFE AND DISCORD

"I have been criticized in pro-integrationist newspapers and other media and have been accused of fomenting strife and discord," Griffin declared.

"The fact that (Federal District Judge Harry J.) Lemley deemed it advisable to grant a two and one-half year grace period before the Little Rock schools must be integrated would indicate that the pro-integrationists were precipitant in their action in sending armed troops against the citizens of a sovereign state," the governor stated.

"The Supreme Court of the United States in a decision handed down today has affirmed Judge Lemley's action," Griffin asserted.

NO COMMENT

(He referred to the court's refusal to by-pass federal district court to hear an NAACP objection to Lemley's ruling.)

Griffin's order to the National Guard was issued from the governor's office, but he was not available for comment on his action.

A prepared statement merely stated that "the governor issued this order to prevent any illegal or unconstitutional control over state affairs on the part of the federal government or any branch of the federal government."

The Arkansas National Guard was nationalized last fall after Arkansas Gov. Faubus had used it to maintain segregation at Little Rock High School. Federal troops subsequently were used to assure integration of the school.

Ike Okays Cash For Emergency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed a bill Monday providing emergency financing for July for federal agencies whose annual appropriation bills have not been passed by Congress.

Without the legislation, many agencies would be technically penniless.

The bill also permits agencies to use available funds to pay recent pay boosts voted by Congress for postal and Civil Service employes.

U.S., Soviets See Success For Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—Russian and American scientific officials got together amiably Monday and predicted success for East-West nuclear talks opening here Tuesday.

The statement cleared away any lingering suggestion that Soviet delegates might not show up for the conference on ways of detecting nuclear weapons testing.

Prof. Yevgeni K. Federov, head of the Soviet delegation, met for two hours with Dr. James B. Fisk, U.S. delegation leader. They agreed the conference will deal solely with means of detecting any cheating that might be tried under a ban.

Last week the Russians threatened to boycott the meeting unless the United States agreed before hand to make a commitment toward a nuclear test ban. The United States replied that it would go on with the conference as scheduled in accordance with an exchange of notes between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev.

After meeting with Fisk, Federov told reporters:

"The Soviet delegation feels the work which will start soon is very important and that it will be possible to find a common language with our colleagues of the United States and other nations."

U.S. Note Prods Russia To Free Downed Fliers

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW—The U.S. ambassador handed to the Soviet Foreign Ministry Monday a note asking for the prompt release of the 9 crew members of an Air Force plane forced down in Soviet territory.

In the memorandum, the United States expressed regret, if, as charged, the plane had crossed the Soviet frontier from Turkey. It told Moscow the unarmed aircraft had been on a "routine" cargo flight and must have strayed from its course "inadvertently by navigational error."

However, the U.S. note rejected "as entirely unfounded" Moscow's charge that the plane intentionally violated Soviet airspace.

Giant Stars, River of Gold Greet News

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Alaskans from Point Barrow to Ketchikan Monday night began celebrating admission of the territory as the 49th of the United States.

Oldtimers at Fairbanks said the Senate's passage of the statehood bill touched off demonstrations that even exceeded Alaska's celebration at the end of World War II.

ON THE HOUSE

Bars threw open their doors with owners shouting, "Drinks on the house," and within minutes after the news reached the territory, the streets were filled with exultant, backslapping, hugging celebrants milling and dancing through stalled, horn-honking traffic.

Civil defense sirens shrieked as radio and television stations spread the news that Congress had approved statehood. All that remains is for President Eisenhower to sign the bill.

"Bonfires tonight will flare across the length and breadth of this great land," said Col. M. R. Marston, chairman of the Statehood Jubilee Committee.

Eskimo villages, getting the news by radio, and modern cities alike rushed plans to salute political unity with the other 48 states.

STAR RAISED

The territory-wide civil defense network went into action to help spread the news.

In the heart of downtown Anchorage, a huge 40-by - 60 - foot American flag was draped across the federal building. A fire department extension ladder hoisted Rita Martin, queen of the 1958 Fur Rendezvous, to pin on a gold 49th star.

Art Sehaur, chairman of the local celebration committee, said the star will symbolize a new American star rising in the north.

In Juneau, a large liberty bell clanged for hours. Residents of Juneau danced in the streets, set off fireworks, shouted and sang.

NEW FLAG DESIGNS ANTICIPATE ALASKAN STATEHOOD

Ike Certain To Sign Bill; Plebiscite Set

By C. P. TRUSSELL

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The Senate approved Monday night the admission of Alaska as the 49th state.

The Senate vote was 64 to 20. Thirty-three Republicans and 31 Democrats voted in favor of admission. Opposed were 7 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

42-YEAR STRUGGLE

The congressional action brought Alaskans victory in a struggle that they had waged for 42 years.

The Senate accepted the statehood bill passed by the House word for word, beating down every effort to change it. Thus, the bill goes directly to the White House for President Eisenhower's certain approval. Any change in the House language would have invited further delays and possible death to the bill.

Final Senate action came after five days and evenings of sometimes bitter battle. There were no party lines. The South fought admission, but not solidly. Senators from other sections of the country were divided.

FLAG A PROBLEM

The admission of Alaska brought to a head a question that has already been debated by school children and adults in every part of the nation—where to put the forty-ninth star in the flag.

President Eisenhower has repeatedly endorsed Alaskan statehood and has expressed the hope that the bill would pass this year.

Griffin May Appoint Dan Duke as Prober

By WILLIAM M. BATES

Gov. Griffin announced Monday that he will conduct his own investigation into reports and rumors of irregularities in the state government.

There was speculation that Griffin might name Atlanta attorney Dan Duke to head the investigation. Duke conferred with Griffin last Monday but both the governor and Duke said their talk did not deal with the inquiry.

OPPOSED GRIFFIN

Duke, who ran against Griffin for lieutenant governor in 1950, is a former assistant attorney general. He filed suit only last week against Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams Sr. attacking constitutionality of the liquor warehouse tax.

The governor told reporters the law gives the chief executive broad powers to look into governmental wrong-doing. He said he wants to get to the bottom of reported irregularities involving his administration.

He said he would use "all the resources at the governor's disposal" in the inquiry. However, Griffin said he did not know at this time what form or direction the investigation will take.

WOULD ASK WEBB

Griffin did say that he would ask Fulton Sol. Paul Webb to turn over to him any evidence involving wrong-doing in the state government.

Webb has picked Atlanta attorney Paul Cadenhead to head an investigation of the state government. The inquiry was recommended by the Fulton County Grand Jury and is to be financed by a $50,000 grant from the Fulton County Commission.

"There is no need to hide anything from the chief executive of this state, Griffin declared.

Rockefeller Seeking N.Y. Governorship

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller announced Monday that he will seek the Republican nomination for governor. His candidacy posed the possibility of a battle of millionaires in the fall political campaign.

Rockefeller has been an undeclared candidate for weeks. Unofficial polls have depicted him as his party's strongest potential candidate.

"The people of the State of New York are entitled to government of the highest quality. I believe that the government they are getting is inadequate to meet the needs of our times, the changing facts of modern life and the insecurities of the present day," Rockefeller said in his announcement.

The only candidate in the field against Rockefeller as of now is Leonard Hall, former Republican national chairman. He said he welcomed Rockefeller as a rival and suggested a series of debates on issues.

Ike Meets with Shah

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, conferred with President Eisenhower for almost an hour and a half Monday.

Fox Suing Adams for $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) —Business promoter John Fox casually announced Monday he is starting a million dollar libel suit against Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams—who has charged him with malicious accusations.

Fox also promised million-dollar suits against others who have been criticizing him.

This sudden development came just before Fox concluded three days of testimony to a House subcommittee. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters: "Mr. Adams will have no comment on that. How silly can this whole thing get?"

EXPLODES UPROARS

The Fox testimony exploded sensations and uproars, accusations and denials, involving Adams, his wealthy Boston friend and benefactor, Bernard Goldfine, and the Boston Herald and Traveler and their publisher, Robert Choate.

Fox said he has instructed his lawyers to file suits for a million dollars each against Choate, the Herald-Traveler Corp., its attorney, William J. Dempsey, and Goldfine's attorneys, Roger Robb and Samuel Sears.

He didn't spell out the grounds for the suits. But he said after the hearing:

"All the individuals and the newspapers made thoroughly scurrilous and libelous statements about me in writing."

NOISY CLOSE

Yelling and gavel banging brought the subcommittee session to a noisy close.

Dempsey was on his feet, among spectators in the big House caucus

Cloudy Skies May Keep City In the High 80s

Partly cloudy skies may keep temperatures out of the 90s Tuesday, but warmer weather still is upcoming for Atlanta, the weatherman said.

The mercury is expected to range between 68 and 90 Tuesday, dropping slightly to 66 and 90 Wednesday.

Monday's high was 85 and the low was 63 in Atlanta, the weather bureau reported.

Castro Grabs 2 More Americans; U.S. Envoys Seek Release of All 41

By GEORGE KAUFMAN

HAVANA (AP) — Two more Americans were kidnaped by Fidel Castro's rebels Monday, boosting the total now held by insurgents to 41 Americans and three Canadians.

Two U.S. consular officials were striving in rebel mountain country of eastern Cuba to free the prisoners. One official made contact with rebel leaders, but was reported awaiting word from the insurgent high command on their release.

While the rebel kidnap campaign went on, there were reports of a new flareup of violence by the dissident forces seeking to overthrow Cuban President Fulgencio Batista.

Dispatches from Cienfuegos on Cuba's south coast said eight rebels and two soldiers were killed in a clash in that area Saturday. Several soldiers were reported wounded.

Another report said a rebel band surprised an Army detachment in a ravine on a farm near Guantanamo and killed a lieutenant and five soldiers. Six other soldiers were wounded.

Working for the release of the North American hostages were U.S. Consul Park Wollam and U.S. Vice Consul Robert Wiecha. Wollam was in contact with rebels in northeast Cuba seeking to free the first Americans and Canadians seized last week.

It was disclosed Monday that Wiecha had gone into the hills around Guantanamo to contact rebels for the release of Guantanamo Naval Base personnel men in rebel hands.

Carried off in a fast swoop on a work camp in eastern Cuba were Sherman Avery White, about 52, of New York, general manager of the big U. S. - built Nicaro nickel plant; and his assistant, J. Andrew Poll, 45, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The other captives are 10 U. S. and two Canadian engineers, seized last Thursday in the city of Mao; 28 U. S. servicemen from the U.S. Navy Base at Guantanamo; and two sugar mill executives kidnaped over the weekend. The last two are Daymond Elmore, 53, of Haynesville, La.; and Richard Sargent, about 50, of Toronto.

Ike Signs Repeal Of Freight Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed a bill Monday repealing the 3 per cent tax on freight shipments but extending for another year the wartime tax rates on corporate income and a wide range of consumer goods.

Elimination of the tax on rail, road, air and water shipments will cost the government half a billion dollars a year in revenue.

But continuation of the 52 per cent rate on corporate incomes, the 10 per cent tax on passenger travel and excises on new autos, automotive accessories, cigarettes, whisky, wines and beer will yield an extra $2,115,000,000.

State Revenue Rises; No New Tax in Sight

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Georgia ended its fiscal year Monday with slightly more income than last year, but two officials had different ideas about how long the state's surplus fund would hold up.

Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams declared that he saw no need for new taxes in the next fiscal year—half of which will be in Gov. Griffin's administration and half in the new governor's.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. agreed that no new taxes would be necessary before June, 1959, but he again warned that the surplus will just about be dissipated in another year if the current rate of state spending is maintained.

According to figures released Monday by Williams, the State Revenue Department collected a slim $89,000 more this June than it did in June 1957. Total department collections for the year were $302,855,497.61.

Added to sources of income outside the Revenue Department, Williams said, that will make total income for the fiscal year about $317.5 million.

That's about $2 million more than last year, and Williams predicted state income would at least remain steady this year.

"With sound business methods, I see no need for additional taxes for the next fiscal year, since there is a surplus of above $30 million in the State Treasury and revenue collections are keeping

Rocket-Firing Jets Rip Lebanon Rebels

Enemy Supply Lines Cut, Say Both Loyalists and Insurgents

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The government sent rocket-firing jet fighters against rebels in the hills only seven miles from Beirut International Airport Monday and claimed to have cut the main rebel supply line into Tripoli.

On their side, the rebels claimed to have cut the main highway between Beirut and Damascus.

Druse tribesmen under the leadership of rebel chieftain Kamil Jumblatt were in the hills overlooking the airport. Jumblatt's army of 500 to 1,000 men appeared also to be poised for an attack on Chemlan, 15 miles southeast of the capital, which had been emptied of civilians.

A spokesman for the government's Tripoli command said Lebanese army forces had taken up positions astride the rebels' main supply route in the Abou Ali River Valley, 10 miles from Tripoli, and had beaten off attacks by 250 rebels trying to reopen the road Sunday night.

He said rebels in Tripoli's Old City already were running low on ammunition and food.

The spokesman said there was limited fighting in the El Mina dock area around the American Presbyterian Hospital Sunday, but that the hours of Sunday night and Monday morning had been some of the quietest since the rebellion began.

He said government troops had captured French and British arms from the rebels and that the rebels had been using Czech-made bazookas.

Rebel leader Rashid Karami said that food stocks in Tripoli still were adequate but he admitted many women and children were leaving the city. However, he said he was encouraging them to leave.

N.Y. Rackets Meeting Like Mafia, Probers Told

Sicilian Secret Gang Trying To Get Union Controls, U.S. Dope Agent Says

The testimony came from Martin F. Pera, a 10-year veteran of the narcotics bureau, as the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee launched public hearings on an alleged crime syndicate operating in this country.

The Apalachin meeting followed the Mafia pattern, Pera said. He described the alleged secret criminal society as one ruled by a grand council in this country and in Sicily, its reputed birthplace. He said it commands an army of hoodlums who may win rewards for such missions as an efficient murder.

Pera said the narcotics bureau's investigations indicate the Mafia has made a concerted effort to penetrate the labor-management relations field.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, told reporters he will ask Pera to expand on this when the witness resumes his testimony Tuesday.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), committee chairman, said at the start of the hearing the nation's economy may be in peril from what he termed a massive infiltration of businesses and labor unions by gangsters and racketeers.

"There exists in America today," McClellan said, "what appears to be a close-knit, clandestine criminal syndicate."

Black Hand or otherwise, McClellan said, there exists a criminal syndicate in this country, masking its operations behind the respectable fronts of business and labor union operations. He said it uses the businesses as a convenient screen to conceal the true source of its revenues from narcotics, gambling and prostitution.

As the starting point for hearings in which McClellan said he will call "figures in the national criminal hierarchy" as witnesses, the committee chose the Apalachin meeting. This was a gathering the police raided last November. They rounded up 60 men, many of them known mobsters, who insisted to the skeptical law they had assembled only to visit a sick friend.

Queen Descends 1,600 Feet in Mine Cage

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

LONDON—Queen Elizabeth II went down a coal mine Monday near Kirkcaldy, Fife, Scotland. She descended 1,600 feet in a miners' cage and walked three-quarters of a mile to a new coal face.

She wore an all-white "miner's" outfit of zippered boiler-suit, headscarf and helmet. Her trousers were tucked into black gumboots. It was the first time a reigning monarch had been down a mine since King George V went down a Yorkshire pit in 1912. The visit to the mine was the last event in a tour the Queen and Prince Philip have been making in Fifeshire.

The Queen splashed through puddles in the walk to the coal face where she saw coal being loaded on a conveyor. For five minutes she crouched almost double in a low gallery while details of the operations were explained to her. On the return journey she rode a pit car, especially painted white, for several hundred yards.

Congress Votes School Milk Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hou passed and sent to President Eisenhower Monday a bill continuing for another three years the government special school milk program.

The bill authorizes federal contribution of 75 million dollars a year through June 30, 1961, to reimburse non-profit child care and training institutions that supplement child diets with milk.

The program started in 1954.

Here's Alaska: More Rugged and Bigger Than Texas

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Here's a capsule look at Alaska, now cleared for admission to the union as the 49th state:

Alaska, which means "The Great Land," was discovered in 1741 by Russian explorers, who founded the towns of Kodiak, Sitka and Wrangell and established the area's first industry—fur trading. The original inhabitants were Indians, Aleuts and Eskimos. They are believed to have migrated across an extinct land bridge from Siberia and Asia. Their descendants now number about 35,000 persons, all U.S. citizens.

The United States purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867 for 7.2 million dollars. The great Alaska salmon and gold mining industries developed under U.S. possession.

Alaska covers 586,400 square miles and is 2¼ times as large as Texas. Its coastline of 33,904 miles exceeds the combined coastline of the entire United States.

The 2,000-mile-long Youkon is Alaska's greatest river, and its tallest mountain is Mt. McKinley, at 20,300 feer, the highest in North America. Glaciers cover 18,000 square miles, and the biggest—the Malispina Glacier off the Gulf of Alaska near Yakutat—si said to be the largest in the world.

Alaska is not a land of ice and snow, although there are plenty of both in the big territory. The climate in the southeastern panhandle is mild, both winter and summer. At Juneau, the capital, temperatures usually are in the 20s in winter and in the 70s in summer, with rainfall averaging about 90 inches a year. At Anchorage, the largest city, winters compare with Chicago, and summers usually are dry with temperatures in the high 70s or low 80s.

Fairbanks, the northernmost metropolis, has weather extremes—with the mercury dipping to 60 and 70 degrees below zero during the long winter and temperatures up to 95 degrees during short, hot summers.

The territorial government was established in 1884. A nonvoting delegate to Congress was approved in 1906. The first territorial legislature met in 1913. Major growth began during World War II as the military began to capitalize on Alaska's strategic location.

FIRST BILL

The first bill calling for admission of Alaska as a state was introduced in Congress by Alaska Delegate James Wickersham in 1916. Statehood became a continuing effort on the part of most Alaskans in 1946. A proposed constitution for the new state was drafted in a territorywide convention in 1955-56, and approved by the voters of Alaska April 24, 1956, with 17,073 for, 8,060 against.

The present population is estimated as between 205,000 and 220,000, including 50,000 military servicemen and dependents. The population has increased rapidly and steadily in the past decade, but unemployment has been a problem. At the start of the summer construction season, the labor force was estimated at 49,000 with 8,700 of the total jobless.

PULP MILL

Major industries are the fisheries (worth about 79 million dollars annually), timber (35 million) and minerals (24 million). A 20-million-dollar pulp mill has been in production at Ketchikan for three years, a 55½ million dollar pulp mill is scheduled to begin operation at Sitka in 1960. Oil, on the basis of discoveries on the Kenai Peninsula south of Anchorage, is expected to become a major industry within the next five years.

The cost of living is a severe handicap to Alaska. Living costs range from about 25 per cent above Seattle at Juneau to about 50 per cent above Seattle at Fairbanks and Nome.

Seattle is the major gateway to Alaska. It lies about 750 miles south of Ketchikan, which calls itself Alaska's First City—the initial port of call to the vast territory from the states.

$3.6 Billion Fund For Aid Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed a bill Monday authorizing a $3,675,592,500 foreign aid program for the fiscal year starting Tuesday.

His action paved the way for House consideration Tuesday of a bill providing financing for the program at a rate $597,000,000 less than that authorized. The amount actually appropriated eventually will determine the size of the program.

How newlyweds Frank and Sally get ahead with the help of C&S Personalized Checks

Sally bags a bargain

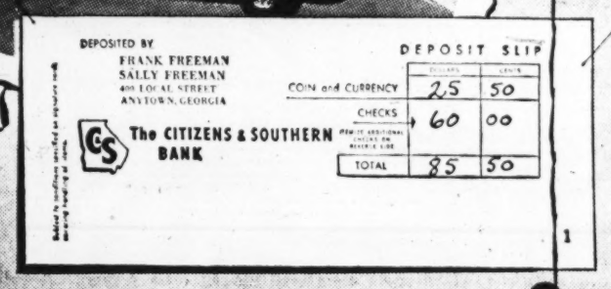

Sally is a new bride but an old hand at bargain hunting. And wherever she shops, her checks imprinted with Sally's name and address help introduce her.

Lazy deposits

The newlyweds like the personal style of C&S banking even better than their free personalized checks. And they both agree that their imprinted deposit slips make banking at C&S so much easier.

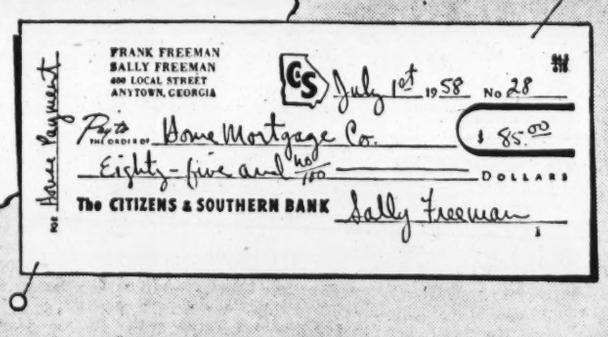

Midnight budget session

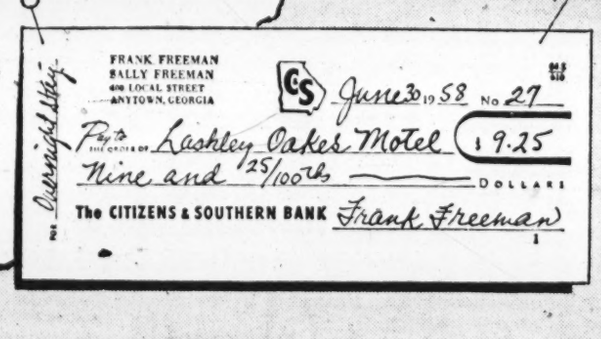

The newlyweds keep careful track of their money. They like the way C&S personalized checks help insure prompt and correct crediting of their payments. And at their monthly budget session, the check stubs show just where every dollar went.

Passport to all Georgia — Frank's C&S checks

When Frank travels his territory, he finds that his bank, The Citizens & Southern, is well known. Across the state, C&S serves more Georgians than any other group of banks.

Your key to shopping convenience

Free personalized checks and deposit slips, for regular or special checking accounts . . . large or small . . . are yours for the asking at Citizens & Southern. Your account will be mighty welcome.

Outlook Points To Shrinking Surplus

Year-end reports of state revenue collections by Commissioner Williams are encouraging. In spite of the decline in economic activity, collections are up about $1,800,000 and total state revenue is expected to hit $317,300,000.

In addition, Mr. Williams estimates there will be a surplus of about 30 million dollars in the treasury when final accounting is made.

That is all well and good. The state still is able to pay its bills and to finance the expanded program of state services.

But in the background are the sobering reminders from State Auditor Thrasher that the state is spending considerably more than its income and the net results of that is a shrinking surplus; in fact, sooner or later an empty till.

Looking at the balance sheet, Mr. Thrasher recently told Gov. Griffin that total approved expenditures for this fiscal year amount to $324,512,657. This is about seven million dollars more than state revenue. The rest must come from surplus funds.

Gov. Griffin has outlined plans for spending approximately 20 million dollars from contingent funds on various projects during the first six months of the new fiscal year, the majority of it on education. While additional funds for such purposes certainly can be justified, Mr. Thrasher's warning that the state is headed for financial troubles is equally in order.

Mr. Williams said that with good business methods, he saw no need why the next state administration should require additional taxes. That, it seems to us, will depend upon how many commitments the outgoing administration makes and whether an attempt is made to achieve genuine economy. The administration's record of spending does not offer much hope on either score.

With state income expected to remain static at least for the next fiscal year, the present rate of spending could deplete the surplus within the next 12 months. That is what Mr. Thrasher seems to be trying to say.

That makes it all the more imperative that whoever is to be the next governor start making plans now for greater efficiency and economy and for some belt-tightening on unnecessary spending. However one looks at it now, the outlook for the next administration is not too bright.

Let Justice Department Review Fox Testimony

Rep. Jack Flynt, of Georgia, properly has suggested that unless John Fox can document his charges against assistant-to-the-President Sherman Adams that the House committee deny him a public forum for venting his spleen.

We concur. The tradition of Anglo-Saxon justice is now involved along with Mr. Adams.

We are not in Mr. Adams' corner. Indeed, we think that by his actions in accepting almost $3,000 in hotel bill payments from manufacturer Goldfine he has destroyed his usefulness and should resign.

We do not question his honesty. But he has made a farce of the Eisenhower crusade. It is no good to say his offenses are imprudent and those of the Democrats corrupt. Nor is it anything but preposterous for the Republicans to say the President can support Mr. Adams "as imprudent" and damn Harry Truman for "cronyism."

That is not the issue.

The issue is Mr. Fox. He is the man who was an arch-supporter of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, who perverted his committee hearings into forums where a second party might be defamed or incriminated without recourse against the slanderer.

The testimony by Mr. Fox has been repudiated by several witnesses—all under oath. We suggest the Justice Department make an earnest investigation to see if perjury charges are in order.

Britain's Cyprus Plan Is Sensible Compromise

Britain's compromise plan on Cyprus, proposing a partnership between Britain, Cyprus, Greece and Turkey for seven years, is a carefully thought-out compromise which could bring to an end, at least temporarily, the long stalemate on this small but strategic island bastion.

The proposal amounts to internationalizing the island for seven years. In making concessions to everybody while asking all principals to give up some of their adamant claims, Britain seeks to bring about cooperation instead of conflict between the three governments.

The extremely difficult problem of Cyprus is accentuated by the fact that British withdrawal almost certainly would bring on armed conflict between Greece and Turkey and possible massacres of Greek and Turkish civilians on the island. Greece demands control of the island and Turkey refuses to accede. Britain, with extremely important bases there, is caught in the middle.

Turkish reaction to the proposal has been favorable; that of Greece, unfavorable. But the door has not been closed and it is sincerely hoped that a basis of negotiation has been reached leading to a satisfactory settlement. The Western world has too many problems to waste its energy and mutual good will in arguments which should be settled by compromise.

Griffin's Alarm Clock Is Ringing Quite Late

Gov. Griffin yesterday made a belated move toward starting a bit of housecleaning on his own at the State Capitol.

His new interest in getting to the bottom of any wrongdoing comes hard on the heels of the launching of Fulton County's intensive probe into state government activities and immediately after the Senate watchdog committee became revitalized.

Why has it taken Gov. Griffin so long to recognize the need to "ferret out with all the machinery and resources of state government" any violations by department heads or employes of the state? Or is this just another breast-beating flurry like those to which the public has become well-accustomed?

Certainly there have been enough irregularities called to the attention of the governor to have warranted action long before now.

The "machinery and resources of state government" about which he speaks have been gathering rust in the attorney general's office. They should have been put to work long ago.

So far there has been far more lip service paid to attacking the ills of government from within than a direct move in that direction.

But Gov. Griffin yesterday at least showed a sign of recognizing that all might not be well. It remains to be seen whether his belated interest will produce any worthwhile results.

Supreme Court Ruling Proper on Little Rock

The United States Supreme Court, sitting yesterday in the last day of the spring session, refused to act ahead of the St. Louis District Court in the Little Rock school case. A delay of 2½ years had been granted the school board in that city in desegregating schools.

This Supreme Court decision was proper. To have acted otherwise would have meant going outside the established order of court custom. It would have been, too, an inference of haste and a by-pass of the district court to which appeal had been made.

The Supreme Court did call the district court's attention to the need for decision well ahead of the September term of school. If the district court should uphold the Little Rock court there can then be direct appeal to the Supreme Court. If it reverses it, then no appeal will be needed.

It would be most unwise if this decision of Monday should be taken as in any way indicating a retreat by the nation's top court. It was not. Here in the South the great majority prefers to hear something other than the truth. The truth is that while from the beginning the court emphasized "deliberate speed" the states eventually will be faced with closing their public schools or making a start at carrying out the court's orders.

Sooner or later this climax must be faced. For leaders to deceive the people for their own political gain is not a public service. This is not at all a discussion of being "for" or "against" the court decision. That is not relevant to the facts.

> "This (decision) demands patience from those in a hurry and forebearance from those reluctant to see any change. The extremists have neither quality. The NAACP is already attacking the breathing spell; white extremists in Arkansas are already proclaiming it as a victory for unyielding segregation.
> "If these two are to be the dominant voices in Little Rock, or in the South, then a year from now, two years from now, all will be as intolerable as before and the tragedy will repeat itself endlessly. And their voices will be dominant unless others of both races are willing to raise their own.
> "The South, white and Negro, deserves time to deal with its own problem. But time, too, is useless if men put it to no purpose."

This is truth and the last paragraph is the significant one.

Atlantan Urges State Officials To Stop Unbusinesslike Handling of 'Idle' Funds

Atlanta—The Christian Science Monitor last week ran a story that should interest every taxpaying Georgian who is concerned about how his money is handled by the state.

According to the Monitor, last year the state treasurer of Colorado informed banks in which so-called "idle" state funds are deposited that they must pay interest that "bears reasonable relationship to the price of money" or else the state of Colorado would invest its inactive funds in short-term government securities.

This year the bankers and the state agreed upon a permanent plan. It works as follows:

Each March 1 the state will set an interest rate for which it will loan inactive state funds. This rate must be within one-quarter of 1 per cent of the average interest rate paid by the federal government on 91-day bills for the preceding five years.

This procedure should save the taxpayers of Colorado more than $100,000 annually.

Now what I would like to know is why our Georgia state officials don't go and do likewise?

Year after year our "inactive" tax dollars are deposited in certain banks within the state much in the same manner in which the annual insurance premium pie is divided up.

Banks in which the money of the people of Georgia is deposited for any length of time should pay the rate of interest prevailing in the marketplace or a reasonably adjusted rate.

If we are to have economy in government, there's no better time to start than right now. Let's end this careless, unbusinesslike handling of the taxpayer's money.

TAXPAYER.

Marietta — Gov. Marvin Griffin's reference to the crime rate in Georgia's capital city is well taken.

Always Family Ahead of Self

Paul Douglas, the senator from Illinois, says he regulates his gift receiving by limiting the value to $2.50. Even there the standard is flexible. As witness the boy who was insisting on $10,000 for his nonpedigreed pup. A neighbor asked if the dog had been sold. The boy said it had.

"Did you get our price?"

"Sure," said the boy. "In a way I did. I traded him for two $5,000 cats."

In re influence and such, here is a story for the times from the Times (NY).

A big wheel contractor gave $25,000 to the party and said, "For myself, I want nothing. But the wife and kids would like to see me in Congress."

The machine clicked, the wheel went to Washington.

Next time, he gave $100,000 and said the family would like to see him in the Senate. He became Mr. Wheel, U.S. senator.

Just before the presidential campaign, he came through with $250,000.

"What now?" said the party boss. "Something else for the wife and kids?"

"Not this time," said Sen. Wheel. "This time I am thinking of myself. Would it be asking too much for you to make me a United States citizen?"

South Carolinans Choose 'City Man' for Governor

South Carolinans are good, sturdy neighbors who apparently go through life free of two political fears which send our fellow Georgians in the piney woods and canebreaks scuttling under the covers for safety. Last week the voters of South Carolina elected Ernest Frederick (Fritz) Hollings to be their next governor.

Mr. Hollings is a young, go-getting lawyer in Savannah's "over home" city of Charleston, which qualifies him for the definition of: (a) Lowcountry man; and (b) a "city" man.

These two qualifications would have made Mr. Hollings—had he enjoyed the otherwise delightful alternative of being a Savannahian rather than a Charlestonian—a political fizzle in Georgia. In Georgia, no matter how well qualified the man and how inspiring his past record and plans for the future, a "city man" who also comes from the Lowcountry doesn't have a prayer in state politics.

South Carolina's voters, however, are apparently convinced their sovereign ship of state will not go down with all hands simply because a Lowcountry "city man" is at the helm. Mr. Hollings is the third governor since 1864 who has called Charleston his home and the 28th Charlestonian to hold that honorable position in the history of our sister state. When a Savannahian was governor of Georgia the memory of man runneth not.

As to Mr. Hollings himself, he will enter the office of governor of South Carolina as one of the youngest chief executives in the history of the state, but with a solid record of legislative experience and achievement already behind him. He is a man of vigorous ideas for improving his home state and a fundamentalist in his ideas of government: "I don't mean to be trite, but the best governed are the least governed. I really believe that. . . ."

For many political figures, election to such a high office is something of a culmination of a career. In Mr. Hollings' case, however, we cannot help but think that he is headed for something higher, some field of challenge yet ahead. He has a running start on wherever his career in public life leads him and at 37 he has a lot of mileage left. We wish him well.

Monroe Advertiser

Much is being made in the daily newspapers over the need for slum clearance and urban renewal in the larger cities of Georgia. There is among small-town dwellers a tendency to watch with sympathy these problems and think of slums as something that does not exist outside the big-city areas.

Thinking of this type is a case of flagrant self-deception. It is a self-deception that had its birth in our drifting along and looking without seeing. How often have the residents of Forsyth swelled with pride over their attractive streets, homes and yards? It is not unusual to hear a Forsythian boast of this being one of the best cities in the state.

He forgets that only a few yards away from him there are slums just as surely as there are slums in New York City. True, we do not have crowded tenement houses filled with men, women and children who see a tree only as a rare occasion. But substandard dwellings do not all take the same form.

Solving the housing problem is far from a simple matter, but the machinery is available to every community to find the solution. It may be painful. Every serious operation is.

Goodwill Workers Need That Building

Pardon me if I seem too enthusiastic about this particular activity. Better still, get excited with me. The other night in the official board meeting of Grace Church one of the men suggested that the church send a contribution to Goodwill in Atlanta in memory of Mr. B. F. Vinson. Of course, the suggestion was unanimously passed.

I sat thinking about Mr. Vinson. In all my life I have never known a better man than he. Every time I was with him I felt lifted up. I was honored to be his pastor. Many times Mr. Vinson said to me, "Charles, Goodwill is the finest service organization I know anything about." He served as its president until he died.

Just now Goodwill is making its first appeal for capital funds. It must have a more adequate building. It has located a building on Courtland street which can be bought for less than half what it would cost to build one that size. The total needed is about $200,000.

It is the A. C. Miller building. That pleases me. I was Mr. Miller's pastor when he died. He used to tell me about making buggies in the early days in Atlanta. It blessed my life to sit with him when he was well past 90 years of age. He would be happy to know that a building which bears his name is being used by Goodwill. Mr. Miller lived by the slogan, "Not charity but a chance."

Bob Turner is now heading up this great work. He is one of the best businessmen and one of the best men in the city. He shows me no mercy on the golf course but he doesn't hold back in an opportunity to help other people. I know that Bob gives the same careful management to Goodwill that he has given to his own business.

The purpose of Goodwill is to make it possible for a handicapped person to make his own way. Just now we must lend a hand to puttting the $200,000 drive over the top. Then, whenever we have repairable things around the house — clothes, appliances, or whatever it is, we should phone Goodwill to send their truck around for these things. The address is 388 Edgewood Ave., NE. The phone number is MU. 8-1220.

One other thing. Goodwill believes that the spiritual life of a man has much to do with his outward life. While it is nonsectarian, it is essentially a spiritual movement. In every Goodwill plant in the United States space is provided for regular religious services. When all else fails, oftentimes player and faith give the strength to overcome crippling disabilities.

In your prayers this day, thank God for Goodwill.

House Should Pass Kennedy-Ives Bill

WASHINGTON—The prevailing judgment that the House of Representatives will cringe in front of the Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill and turn aside the measure which recently passed the Senate 88-to-1 seems to me contrary to sound reasoning and sound politics.

The theory is there is going to be a blockade of Democrats aided by a number of Republicans who just don't want to take any action which might offend the labor vote this fall.

On top of those who don't want any labor bill at this session are those who want a much more repressive measure and who would rather have nothing if they can't have their own way.

The House Labor Committee is likely to be of little help. The reason Speaker Sam Rayburn is holding the Ives-Kennedy bill on his desk for strategic maneuver is that he knows the Labor Committee will move it along with the speed of a stalled escalator. Rayburn will either have to bypass the committee, which is a polarized group usually dominated by anti-labor and pro-labor extremists, or turn on the kind of heat of which he is capable.

These are the reasons why so many see the Kennedy-Ives bill being short-circuited.

But all the evidence is not on one side. I am inclined to think that after the wiser heads have taken a little time to look, not only at the merits of what this legislation begins to do by way of safeguarding union democracy and union funds, but also at the political realities, they will decide that this is the best time—not the worst time—to put the Kennedy-Ives bill into law.

Here is new labor legislation designed primarily to safeguard the rights of workers in the management of union affairs at two vital points—the democratic election of officers at least every four years and financial accounting under penalty by unions and union officials. The factors which give this legislation a better chance of passing than many appear to think are these:

1. There is a visible and an aroused public opinion in its favor.
2. The need for such legislation was proved by the McClellan committee's investigation into the abuses and scandals with which some unions were ridden.
3. This is not punitive but protective legislation.
4. The drafters of the Kennedy-Ives bill were men of moderation and experience in the field of labor legislation.
5. It is supported by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO who, though he would like to see some of its supervisory provisions over union internal affairs somewhat reduced, calls it "conscientious" legislation.

Probably neither party will benefit politically from helping to pass this legislation. But if either party blocks it, I have no doubt that a lot of voters will be very, very annoyed.

Mystery Shrouds Security Council

WASHINGTON—The Adams case has focused attention on that largely anonymous but immensely powerful staff that serves the President in the White House. Nevertheless, when Gen. Robert Cutler resigned the other day and was replaced by Gordon Gray as special assistant to the President for national security affairs, the announcement created very little interest and was buried back in most newspapers among the shirt-sale ads.

This is one of the anomalies of Washington: Any personal misdemeanor by one of the President's assistants is a sensation but, conversely, there is very little interest in the work they do or their capacity to do that work if they stay out of personal trouble.

For example, the President's ambassadors have to be confirmed by the Senate when it is in session before they are permitted to represent the President abroad, but men such as Gen. Cutler and Gordon Gray, who have much greater responsibility, slip into the National Security Council without any review of their records.

It is generally believed that the National Security Council is the most powerful body of presidential advisers on foreign and defense policy in Washington. It is composed of the President, who presides as chairman, the vice president, the secretaries of state and defense and the director of the Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization.

As the new special assistant to the President for national security affairs, Gordon Gray will present to this Cabinet committee many of the most important questions of world policy. He will circulate the agenda and define the issues to be reviewed by the NSC. The President, of course, can accept or reject the recommendations of its members, but under the Eisenhower staff system the men who define the issues and present them to the NSC clearly have considerable authority.

This at least is the theory and Gen. Eisenhower has placed great stress upon it. During his first campaign for the presidency, for example, he had this to say:

"I believe that membership in the National Security Council should not be limited to Cabinet officers and heads of administrative agencies. These men are already burdened by the duties of their own offices. The National Security Council as presently constituted is more a shadow agency than a really effective policy-maker. That, I believe, can be corrected by appointing to it civilians of the highest capacity, integrity and dedication to public service. They should have no other official duties."

Is the NSC so constituted today? The impression outside is that it is not.

The NSC members are preoccupied with the affairs of their own departments and much of the NSC work is done by the NSC Planning Board, which is a mystery to even the most observant members of the Washington community.

Thus, there is growing up around the President a large staff which comes into the news only when one of them resigns or, as in the case of Sherman Adams, gets into trouble.

East Point Underpass Plans Are Submitted

Engineers submitted plans to Fulton County officials Monday for rights of way on the $1.8 million Spring avenue underpass and extension in East Point.

A. T. McDonald, public works director, said this means appraiser will begin contacting property owners in about six weeks.

The official explained that the next step is completion of title reports

McDonald said the plans envision "a completely new roadway carved through a residential neighborhood."

The four-lane roadway beings near the intersection of E. Cleveland avenue at Humphries street and extend northwesterly across the city to tie in with Headland drive at Warren Way. The project involves an underpass which will pass under railroad tracks, N. Main street and Church street at one of the city's busiest intersections. It involves 1.4 miles of four-lane roadway with left-turn lanes.

Chattooga School Cash Awaits Science Buildup

Funds totaling $600,000 will be withheld from Chattooga County schools unless the county meets certain requirements or approves a consolidation plan, Supt. Lowell Hix said at Summerville.

State law requires that students entering high schools at the 1960-61 term must have specified science courses with laboratory training for graduation.

High schools at nearby Lyerly and Menlo have no science laboratories, although fund-raising drives have been launched for their installation.

A special state survey team recommended consolidation of Lyerly, Menlo, and Sublinga with Summerville high school, but the proposal was voted down by the county school board.

Hix said state authorities are not just suggesting that Chattooga County either meet the science requirements or consolidate.

"They mean business," he said. "Should the schools fail to meet the requirements and should the school board continue to vote against consolidation, the $600,000 alloted to us will be withheld."

Quick Ruling Denied In Little Rock Appeal

time to permit arrangements to be made for the next school year."

The order suspending desegration in Little Rock for 2½ years—until January 1961—was issued June 21 by U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley.

Two days later, the judge turned down a plea by attorneys representing Negroes to stay effectiveness of his order pending the outcome of an appeal.

Under the integration plan now suspended, nine Negroes attended Little Rock's Central High School the past school year under protection of federal troops sent there by President Eisenhower.

Lemley said he granted the suspension of desegregation "in the public interest, including the interest of both Negro and white students."

Lemley's ruling received wide acclaim from southern opponents of desegregation.

Attorneys for the Negroes involved called it "an invitation to violence and to substituting a government of mob rule for one of laws."

The attorneys filed an appeal in the U. S. Court of Appeals, then asked the Supreme Court to bypass the lower court, hold a special term, and hand down a quick decision.

In a brief unsigned opinion Monday, the Supreme Court said its power to bypass an appellate court and rule directly on an appeal "has been exercised but rarely, and the issues and circumstances relevant to the present petition do not warrant its exercise now."

Among other actions Monday, the Court:

Upheld firing of a Philadelphia teacher who refused to answer a question about Communist party associations.

Barred enforcement of a California law requiring non-Communist oaths to obtain tax exemptions.

Denied New York gambler Frank Costello a review of his 1954 income tax evasion conviction.

Refused to review an arrangement under which Girard College of Philadelphia has continued as a school for white orphans only. Stephen Girard, Colonial merchant prince who provided for the school in his 1830 will, specified the school was to be for white boys only.

Alaska To Join Union as 49th State

taken. When the result was announced he shouted: "Thank God!"

As well-wishers surrounded him he made a prediction. "I believe that we will show the United States of America that we will be one of the greatest states in the union within the next 50 years."

It was expected that Alaska could assume full statehood by autumn or early winter. Its two senators and one representative could take their congressional posts when the 86th Congress convenes next January.

This would confirm the admittance of the territory, which has been in that status for 91 years, since its purchase from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000.

Before the final vote tonight, the Senate rejected by a vote of 62-22 a point of order entered by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss). Eastland contended that the proposed Alaskan state constitution, which would be approved by the passage of pending legislation, would do violence to the Constitution of the United States.

The Alaskan constitution provides for the election of two senators, one for a long term of six years, and another for a term of two or four years, to permit the staggering senatorship incumbencies. This is provided by the U.S. constitution.

But the Senate decided this was not a valid objection and overrode it almost three to one.

Another attempt by opponents was rejected. Sen. Stennis, (D-Miss), moved that the bill, instead of being passed, be referred to the Senate Armed Forces Committee, of which he is a member, for the study of matterms within its jurisdiction for about three weeks.

At issue was a provision that the President be given authority to withdraw at any future time certain lands in northern and northwestern Alaska for the purposes of national defense. Under the bill Alaska would be granted some 103,550,000 acres now owned by the federal government.

Sen. Russell of Georgia gave vigorous support to the Stennis amendment.

Striking at the provision that a portion of the new state could be taken over for national defense purposes, Russell declared, "I have grave doubts about the constitutionality of that provision of the bill. We just don't have half-in and half-out states.

"I feel very deeply that the Congress of the United States will commit a very grievous error if it adopts this bill."

The Stennis amendment was defeated, 55-31. The bill still remained free of amendments and in the form already passed by the House of Representatives.

Also at issue was a provision in the legislation that would give the Defense Department jurisdiction over about 279,000 square miles of land in Alaska's northwest.

An attempt by Sen. Thurmond to strike from the bill its Section 10, which Southern opponents held would not admit Alaska on an equal footing with other states, was defeated by a vote of 67-16.

Another attempt by Thurmond to require congressional approval in advance of presidential proclamations to effect the withdrawal of lands for defense purposes was rejected by a voice vote.

With the opposition thus routed the measure went to final passage.

The measure provides that the general election of Alaskan officials be held not later than Dec. 1. However, the proposed new state already has held an election that tentatively designated its congressional representatives. The senators selected are former Gov. Ernest Gruening and William A. Egan. The "representative elect" is Ralph J. Rivers. They already have been around Congress for a long time, working day and night for the admittance of Alaska. They still require formal election before they enter Congress as members approved by the plebiscite.

The prospective 49th state has been bidding for its full-fledged entry into the union for 4 of the 46 years since the last two states were added in 1912. New Mexico was admitted in January of that year and Arizona followed a month later.

While the enactment of the Alaskan admittance legislation makes it virtually assured that another star will be added to the flag, the people of that territory must still make the final decision. A plebiscite will be taken on the question of immediate admittance. Previous trial run-throughs on the subject have indicated a 2-to-1 desire for statehood.

Publisher Fox Suing Adams For $1 Million for Libel

room, shouting that he wanted to put Fox on notice that "we propose to prove Mr. Fox is a liar, a welsher and a cheat."

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) smothered some of Dempsey's words with a crashing gavel and thundered: "Take your seat."

With denials coming quickly, Fox last week had depicted Adams as using his weight with government agencies to help Goldfine, a former friend and now a business foe of Fox.

And, to the accompaniment of more denials, Fox had testified that his Boston Post collapsed in 1956 under powerful pressures from within the Eisenhower administration, which he linked to enmity of Choate and Goldfine.

Along the way, Fox quoted Goldfine as having told him Adams had promised to help Goldfine out of trouble with the Federal Trade Commission over mislabeling of textiles, that he had given Adams checks over a period of years, bought him some securities, and purchased him a house to live in here in Washington.

Adams fired back with a formal statement he personally read to reporters last Thursday night. It accused Fox of making malicious accusations and added:

"It is difficult to separate the many falsehoods in Mr. Fox's incredible testimony. Virtually everything he said about me—in one way or another—is false."

Fox stuck by his guns Monday. He took back nothing.

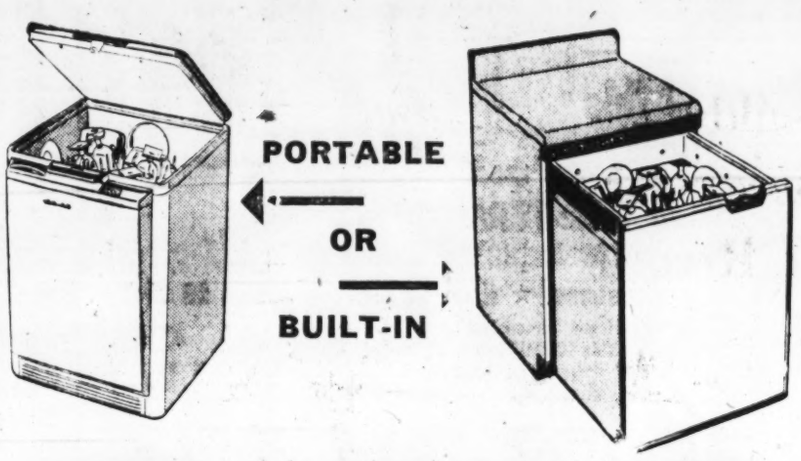

In fact, he added something—that Adams had obviously ordered Goldfine to "keep his mouth shut" when, Fox said, Goldfine proposed a toast to Adams on May 10, 1955, and remarked that "he never let's his friends down and he isn't letting me down at this time." At this time, Goldfine was in difficulty with the FTC.

Adams has conceded that he accepted gifts and payment of hotel bills from Goldfine—but only on a basis of friendship. He has testified he was imprudent—and President Eisenhower agreed—in making inquiries at the FTC and the Securities and Exchange Commission about Goldfine's troubles.

The White House, Choate, and members of Congress all have jumped on the subcommittee's conduct of the hearings.

One of the critics, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo), tried Monday to get a resolution through the House calling for an investigation of the investigating subcommittee.

Cadenhead Finds Difficulty In Recruiting Right Staff

A. Paul Cadenhead, who began his job Monday investigating wrongdoing in state government, said he is having "much more difficulty than I anticipated" in getting the staff members he wants.

The new assistant to Fulton County Sol. Gen. Paul Webb said he feels, however, that "a capable staff is the secret of success, and I intend to have a good staff eventually."

Although he hasn't yet lined up his staff—and he is not sure now what size it will be, Cadenhead said, his actual investigation got under way Monday. He said he saw several people but said he could not make a statement on the nature of the work so far.

Cadenhead emphasized, however, that any staff member he selects will be "screened very closely."

As Cadenhead began work, State Sen. William Trotter of LaGrange, chairman of the Senate Watchdog Committee, said he plans to confer with Cadenhead about the investigator's offer to work with the committee.

The Fulton probe is being financed with $50,000 appropriated for that purpose by the county commissioners.

$1,175 Turns Into Wad of Paper

Police Monday were searching for a $1,175 bank deposit which vanished.

Detectives W. E. Petty and E. W. Felder said the deposit was made up Friday at a shoe store at 77 Whitehall St., S. W., and placed in a bank night deposit vault.

Monday bank officials discovered someone had removed the money and placed in the sack a wad of paper towels, detectives said.

Building Here Soars To Record

Value of construction authorized in Atlanta for the first six months of 1958, totaled $53,875,084, only $5,663,999 short of the $59,539,083 in values authorized for the entire year of 1957.

William R. Wofford, building inspector, said building values continue to soar towards an all-time record for the city. He said the previous high mark was in 1954 when values reached $87,541,690.

A total of 4,358 permits were issued for the first six months of 1958 compared to 4,234 for the corresponding six months of last year.

The 784 permits issued in June this year authorized work valued at $5,277,365, a figure $1,617,553 more than the $3,659,812 authorized by the 661 permits issued in June 1957.

"Construction in Atlanta is hitting a 100-million-dollar-plus pace," Wofford said. "If it continues, the city will write another all-time record for 1958 despite recessions and a slowing economy being experienced by many other of the larger cities of the nation."

July 4 Talks Open No. 2 Campaigns

Two candidates for lieutenant governor announced Monday that they would open their campaigns on the traditional July 4th holiday Friday.

Rep. John D. Odom of Camden County will open his campaign in conjunction with the reunion of descendants of Lewis and Lyman Hall at the Altamaha River bridge on U.S. Highway No. 1 between Lyons and Baxley.

Odom is a descendant of the Hall family. Lewis was a Revolutionary War officer, and Lyman was one of Georgia's three signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Howell (H. E.) Smith of Atlanta will open his campaign on July 4th at Hapeville, his birthplace. He plans to make three talks during the day and has planned entertainment for his opening rally.

As I See It

It Takes Real Skill To Save Any Money

By JACK BENNY

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Having been asked to do a guest column for Paul Jones, I decided to write about a subject which has always appealed to me—from an academic sense of course—money!

Money has been the subject of wise men's philosophical cogitation since its invention by the Phoenicians, early-day residents of ancient Phoenix.

Jack Benny

With the hammer ring upon the first coinage die, man's load in life became lighter. In his pocket he could carry enough money to purchase things which prior to money's invention would have cost him perhaps fourteen stone of watermelon, an unwieldy burden at best.

Concurrently, however, this hammer ring created a number of problems. The first was the problem of obtaining money. Second, and I'm not sure that's a proper placement, is the problem of keeping it.

Along these lines I have formed a certain set of operating procedures which I will be happy to pass along. Capricious buying should be avoided at all—you'll pardon the expression—cost. Never, in a weak moment allow yourself to purchase something on a whim.

THIS MAY PROVE DIFFICULT for the neophyte as all the guile and craftiness of merchants is directed at just such weak-willed persons. Signs and advertisements drip with sentimental suggestions like "Buy your sweetheart a box of Goodie Chocolate."

Paul Jones is on vacation. In his absence, his column will be written by some of the top stars in television. Today's column is by veteran TV, radio and screen funnyman Jack Benny.

A nice card and a candy bar will serve just as well.

Never pick up luncheon or dinner checks at a restaurant, club, or night spot. And I mean that literally.

Now from time to time, even if you follow the above advice, someone will push a check toward you. At this point you have several possible courses of action. Providing you haven't drunk your glass of water you can knock it over, and in attempting to dry out the table cloth, once again push the check across the table.

At times, this is impractical, for instance if the table is slanting toward you. However, suddenly remembering you must make a phone call can extricate you from such a position, as can a sudden desire for cigarettes, a newspaper or a just-remembered appointment, to which you must rush.

I WOULD LIKE to make it perfectly clear that I am not cheap. It's just that I detest ostentation in anyone, particularly myself. Check grabbers are such showoffs.

Another difficult situation a man may find himself facing is how to avoid paying for a round of drinks at his golf club. I have found that by being a step or two behind my friends someone always pays for the first round. The second is fought over and the third, etc., until everyone but me has paid.

At this point a hand placed to your head and a remark about the hot sun giving you a headache usually brings the immediate perscription of another drink from your generous and spend-thrift friends.

This is where you must be strong. Refuse the offer, grimacing as if the pain were becoming increasingly worse, mumble something about having to see your doctor about migraines, stagger a bit and start to leave.

Now comes the calculated risk, necessary in order to maintain your social position. After taking two or three pain-wracked steps, turn suddenly and looking as sick as possible offer to buy a round for the boys. They have never failed to stop me before my hand reached a pocket.

That pretty well takes care of the ground rules for thrift involving outright expenditures. The delicate, subtle ways of saving money is what separates the men from the boys. However I haven't time to go into such detail so will leave you with my slogan for thrift, "A Penny Saved Is a Penny Earned."

New Hour-Long All-Star Jazz Show Planned for CBS

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK—A new hour-long "Timex All-Star Jazz Show" will be presented by the CBS television network on Monday, Nov. 10 (10-11 p.m.) under the sponsorship of Timex watches.

Already signed to star in this "live" musical special are Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, songstress Anita O'Day and Les Brown and his orchestra. An array of the country's foremost jazz artists will be added to the cast throughout the coming weeks.

Suzy Parker Sues Railway For $350,000 in Smashup

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Suzy Parker, injured in an automobile-train collision which killed her father, filed a $350,000 damage suit Monday against the Florida East Coast Railway Co.

The suit, filed in State Supreme Court, said the former model was unable to pursue her career because of the injuries.

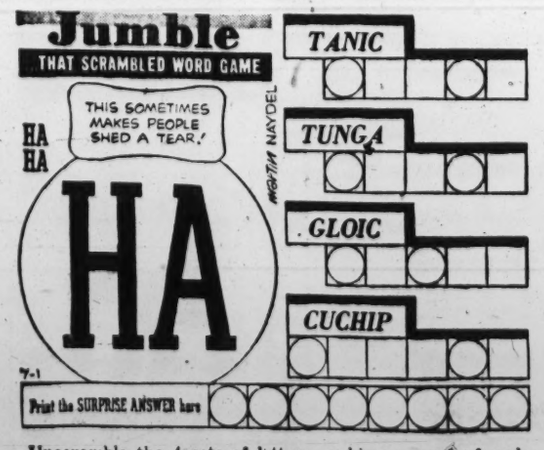

The car in which she was riding with her father, George Lofton Parker, and the train collided last June 7 at a railroad crossing near St. Augustine, Fla.

She suffered broken arms and other injuries.

Statehood for U.S. Icebox Leaves Atlantans Cold

By JAMES SHEPPARD

The Man on the Street in Atlanta is cold to prospects of America's Icebox becoming the 49th state.

Typical opinions ranged from "I suppose it's okay if they let it stay up there" to "I'll find out when I go up there and ask one of the Eskimos."

Most pedestrians queried Monday night reacted nonchalantly to news that the Senate had okayed the House-passed Alaskan statehood bill, now requiring only presidential approval and acceptance by the Alaskans to extend the union to a point 55 miles from Russian Siberia.

"It's been so long since I was in school studying geography that I just don't know how I feel about it. Where is Alaska anyway?" asked Miss Willeane Seate, pharmacy cashier, of 430 Boulevard, NE.

"Is Alaska will be a Democrat state and not Republican, it might be a good idea," said Russell Hosch, college student, of 960 Oak St., SW.

"I don't see any reason why we shouldn't take them in, for we've got the rottenest state and national government in history, and it might improve things in Washington if Alaska would help get rid of all those Republicans," commented A. J. Kennedy, watchman, of 232 Hunnicutt St., SW.

"I haven't given Alaska much thought and I don't know," said G. N. Snelling, druggist, of 729 Park Dr., NE.

"I think it would be interesting," reacted Mrs. L. Perry, store cashier, of 929 Argonne Ave., NE.

"We support the place anyway, so why shouldn't Alaska have to put up with Washington's jurisdiction just like we folks in Georgia," said W. L. Nichols, taxi driver, of Rte. 2, Smyrna.

"I don't know anything about Alaska," said Bobby Crowe, construction worker, of 1309 Stewart Ave., SW.

"I know Talmadge is against it and I kinda go along with Herman because he's the guiding light down here," said B. L. Calhoun, policeman, of 2253 Popuar Rock Ter., SE.

"I judged a high school debate on that subject so I should have a decent opinion. I believe that Alaska should become a state because of its strategic military importance, its abundant natural resources which should be developed, and the number of U.S. citizens we already have living there," said Nick Miller, college student, of 6059 Boylston Dr., Sandy Springs.

"I think they should stay where they are. I think we've got enough to do with 48 states," said Mrs. B. A. Long, housewife, of 4839 Caldwell Rd., NE.

River of Gold Greets News In a Wildly Jubilant Alaska

giving were planned in Anchorage, Fairbanks and Juneau and many of the smaller towns of the territory.

The territory's largest bonfire was touched off in Anchorage's largest park.

"We've already got 50 tons of packing crates on the fire," said Marston. "There's a ton each for the 48 states, one for Alaska and even one for Hawai."

Marston formerly headed the Territorial Eskimo Guard.

In Fairbanks, a river of gold and another big golden star above the city were used in the statehood victory celebration. A dye of the type used for air rescue operations at sea was poured into the river when the news was announced, turning the surface of the water a bright gold.

A giant star measuring 50 feet across was hoisted over the city by weather balloons.

In this land of pioneers where the airplane is the main line of transportation every plane in the Anchorage area was airborne. Alaska has a ratio of 44 planes for every 10,000 people, the highest of any of the continental states.

Street dances were scheduled in most major cities, and foreworks displays—some of them ready for the Fourth of July holiday later this week—were to light the late evening darkness in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

Some Alaskans didn't join in the celebrations. Statehood, now almost a reality for the more than 205,000 residents of Alaska, still has some opponents.

Typical of the reaction of some of the anti-statehood residents was the comment of one Junean man, overheard as hundreds of other Juneau residents blocked traffic and cheered in a downtown street. Said he:

"Our school tax is $10 a year now. We'll be lucky if it's no more than $50 this time next year."

Said another: "That bell may be ringing for you. It's tolling for me."

And said one schoolgirl:

"It would have to happen in the summertime. We'll never get a day off from school now."

Elvis Faces Suit In Car Crash

MIAMI (UPI)—A young Washington, D. C., secretary sued singer Elvis Presley and his former chauffeur for $5,000 Monday because of an automobile accident while Presley was rocking and rolling on a Miami theater stage.

The secretary, Mary Frances Tuell, 24, charged in the federal court suit she suffered "whiplash" injuries in 1956 while riding in a car that was struck from behind by one of Presley's fancy automobiles, driven by his chauffeur, Arthur Hooten.

Presley, a draftee, currently is learning how to drive an Army tank.

Nurse, Doctor Settle Suit

A breach of promise suit involving a nurse and a physician has been settled out of court, it was learned Monday.

Court records showed that the suit by Miss Florence H. Patterson against Dr. Clyde L. Crawford of Atlanta was dismissed June 23 in Fulton Superior Court. Judge Luther Alberson had granted a new trial in the case.

Judge Alverson said he granted a new trial in the case—in which a Jury earlier had awarded Miss Patterson $40,000 damages—after both parties came to him and requested it. The suit was dismissed the same day.

Miss Patterson contended in the action that Dr. Crawford had dated her continuously since 1937 and had promised to marry her. She said that on the basis of his promises of marriage she worked in his office at a low salary to help build up his practice. She said he told her in 1955 that they "were through" and he was "not going to marry her."

NEW ORLEANS—The smallest New Orleans crowd of the year watched Atlanta's No. 1 star end the longest game in City Park stadium history with a dramatic 13th inning home run for a 5-4 Cracker victory Monday night.

The extra-inning triumph moved Atlanta two games ahead of second place Birmingham, 5-4 loser to Mobile.

Sammy Meeks climatically belted his 14th round tripper of the season over the convenient, 246-foot left-field fence to mercifully send home a sparse gathering of 367 payees who had agonized through 3 hours and 48 minutes of play, hoping for a Pelican victory.

Meeks, who had been walked or hit by a pitched ball on five occasions in the last two games here, belted his winning blow with one man out and no one on base.

Three of the five Cracker runs during the marathon came via the homer route. Poochie Hartsfield, who made three brilliant catches in right field to get Atlanta out of critical situations, and Dick Phillips smacked back to back homers in the third innings. Hartsfield's was his second. For Phillips it was No. 12.

SAM THE MAN MEEKS

What Makes Cracker Runs?

Phillips Also Hits Four-Baser

Brilliant pitching by Jim Umbricht, Paul Cave and Charlie Gorin kept the Crackers in contention despite Ken Hunt's two-run, pinch-hit homer in the ninth that knotted the score at 4-4.

Gorin, who faced only five batters and allowed no hits, picked up his second victory against a single loss. Kellner, third Pelican pitcher, suffered his eighth loss against three victories.

The first two Pel runs were also the product of a two-run homer, Tony Asaro smashing it in the sixth.

The victory gave the Crackers a 2-1 lead in the series and a 3-3 record on the current road trip.

Bob Giggie (2-2) will pitch the final game of the series for the Crackers Tuesday night. Bill Drummond (2-1), who beat Birmingham with a four-hitter last time out, will fire for the Pels at 8:40 Atlanta time

The Crackers jumped Ed Cereghino for a 1-0 lead with two men out in the second inning. Buck Riddle bashed the Crackers' first hit, a double to left. And after Chuck Cottier walked, Ebba St. Claire sent Riddle home with a single to center. Hartsfield led off the third with his shot over the right field fence. And Phillips followed by smashing one that was almost identical.

A run in the fourth upped the Atlanta margin to 4-0. Cottier led with a double, went to third on St. Claire's second one-baser and eventually scored as Hartsfield forced St. Claire at second.

Asaro's loft into the left field "Oriental Gardens" behind a walk to Reed in the Pelican sixth cut the advantage to 4-2.

Umbricht required relief in the seventh after singles by Billy Davidson, pinch-hitter Lamar North and Reed filled the sacks with two aways.

Cave came in and Asaro lashed a vicious liner to right, but Hartsfield made a sensational catch near the fence to squelch the threat.

Davidson outlegged a bunt down the third-base line to open the ninth. Then, after North skied to DeMerit, Hunt swatted his tie-producing blast. DeMerit helplessly watched the smash, one he could have caught in his home park, land in the seats.

Then after three scoreless innings came Meeks, "Mr. Clutch" of so many Cracker victories. And he did it again.

The Tardy Rookie

The road was long with various detours along the way and Carlton Willey was beginning to wonder whether it ever would lead to County Stadium.

On June 23, more than seven years after a sensational break-in season at Quebec, the lean right-hander reached his destination. Manager Fred Haney handed Willey his first big-league starting assignment, and the one-time Cracker responded by blanking San Francisco, 7-0. He followed up last Saturday by curbing Los Angeles, 7-3, before 30,557 Milwaukee fans and a national TV audience.

Outlar

The triumph over the Dodgers, achieved via a smooth four-hitter, made Willey a man of distinction on the Braves' staff. Beating the Dodgers this season isn't considered much of a feat, unless you happen to be a Milwaukee pitcher. The Dodgers had floored the defending World Champions for a count of nine over a two-year span before Willey fractured the hex.

Leo Durocher and Bill Veeck, TV commentators with rich baseball backgrounds, were wowed by Willey's performance Saturday. So was Brave pitching coach Whitlow Wyatt, who vouched last spring that Willey was ready to star under the big tent.

Willey and Wyatt, neighbors in a Milwaukee hotel, were talking baseball when our operator put through a call Monday.

—Milwaukee Should Make Him Famous

Wyatt, first on the line, made a surprising observation. "He pitched two mighty fine games," Whit said, "but he's going to improve. You know I've been sold on Willey ever since I saw him in Atlanta in 1952. He may not be quite as fast as he was then, but he's a real pitcher now. He's got a sneaky fast ball, a real good curve and a fine change of pace.

"We're mighty lucky to have Willey," Wyatt continued. "Losing Bob Buhl was a tough blow, and Willey will ease the strain. Joey Jay is also looking mighty good.

"Henry Aaron's started hitting, and that makes everyone feel better. He can carry a club when he's right, and Wes Covington will be back in the lineup this week. We've played bad baseball and still managed to stay up there, but things are looking better. And Willey is one of the reasons."

Wyatt then handed the phone to the happiest rookie in the majors.

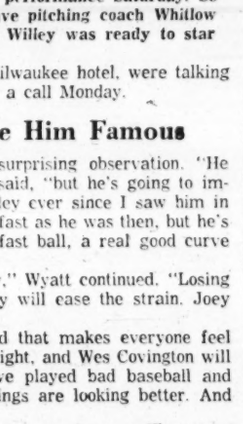

"I finally got here," Willey said, remembering the days in Atlanta when everyone had told him he was destined for the majors and a great career. "Now, I want to make sure I stay here, for there were many times when I didn't think I'd make it."

After a 15-5 debut at Quebec (ERA 1.95), Willey jumped from Class C to Atlanta in 1952. He failed to notice a change in environment and seven of his first eight decisions were winning efforts.

He then became the victim of a freak accident, hitting his elbow against his knee while following through, and closed the season with a 10-6 chart. After a two-year hitch in the Army, Willey resumed his career at Toledo.

—The Wheel of Fortune Finally Turned

For a spell it looked as though Willey, like Chet Nichols and several others, had left his career in the service. He dipped to 5-10 at Wichita in 1956, but a year later he was a 21-game winner for the same club and the most valuable player in the American Assn.

Willey

What happened?

"Well, those two years in the service didn't help any," Willey said. "I pitched some during the 16 months in Germany, but I couldn't get going after I got back. That's when I figured I'd never make it in the big leagues.

"It's hard to explain what happened," Willey explained. "Last year Ben Geraghty gave me a regular turn, and I didn't pitch any in relief. That meant a lot, for I've always fared better when I worked regularly."

Willey was merely a victim of circumstances last spring. Everyone agreed he was ready to graduate to the majors, and Wyatt predicted at least 15 victories for his pupil. Unfortunately for the Braves and Willey, no roster space was available. Willey had an option left. The others didn't, so he was stored in Wichita until June 13. While marking time, he hurled a no-hitter in the American Association.

At long last the wheel of fortune is spinning in Willey's direction, and he's cashing in. Off his first two starts he looks like the pennant insurance the Braves desperately need in a bid for their second straight pennant.

While Willey was mowing down the Dodgers last Saturday, Durocher remarked that it looked like this fellow would be on the scene for a long time. Wyatt, for one, agrees. It was indeed a long climb to the top, but Willey's there now.

Chicks Acquire Hurler Dahlke

MEMPHIS (AP)—The Memphis Chicks announced Monday the acquisition of pitcher Joe Dahlke, a former Chick who was released recently by the Chicago White Sox.

Pitcher Bill Abernathie was placed on the inactive list to make room for Dahlke, a right-hander, who divided his time this year between Indianapolis and Louisville of the American Assn.

Tigers Nip Athletics, 7-6, On Ward, Maris Errors

Goofs Plague Shabby Contest

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers scored three runs — two unearned — in a wild ninth inning and defeated the Kansas City Athletics 7-6 Monday at Briggs Stadium.

Detroit trailed the Athletics 6-4 going into the big inning.

Third baseman Preston Ward threw an apparent double-play grounder into right field and let in two runs, then right-fielder Roger Maris made a wild heave over third base allowing the winning run to score.

The Tigers loaded the bases with one out on three singles that drove out relief pitcher Tom Gorman. Harvey Kuenn then hit Murry Dickson's first pitch to Ward and the run parade started.

It was a shabby played contest from start to finish. The Athletics scored one run in the first inning, but the chance of a bigger start was erased on poor base running by Maris.

On first with one out, Maris ran all the way to third base when Bob Cerv lifted a lazy fly to centerfield. Maris, who thought there were two out was doubled easily at first.

CHICAGO (AP)—Reliever Hoyt Wilhelm put down an eighth inning Chicago White Sox uprising and preserved a 5-3 victory for the Cleveland Indians and right-hander Cal McLish Monday night.

With two runs in, a man on second and none out, Wilhelm got the Sox out without further damage as McLish gained his fourth victory against five defeats.

MacKay Ignores Injured Hand And Faces Aussie Rose Next

DuPont Moves Past Muller

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Barry MacKay hammered his way into the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championship Monday, masking with a boyish grin the worry caused by a blistered hand. He was the only American to make the last eight.

The powerful Dayton, Ohio, giant swept India's Ramanathan Krishnan 6-3, 11-9, 6-2 with chain lightning services and cross court backhands.

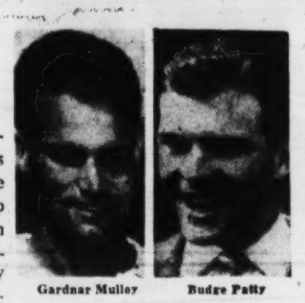

He even aced Krishnan a dozen times with his second service—a thing never seen before in this pantheon of tennis.

Two other American warhorses—Budge Patty and Gardnar Mulloy—pitted craft against strength but were eliminated in the singles.

Elegant maestro Patty of Los Angeles and Paris fought a terrific five-setter with Sven Davidson, Sweden, on the center court. Davidson finally walked off with the decision 6-4, 2-6 4-6, 9-7, 6-4.

Mulloy, probably the best conditioned 44-year-old man in the game, caught Mervyn Rose when the Australian left-hander had everything working. Rose won 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Gardnar Mulloy

Budge Patty

U.S.' Mulloy Patty Lose

In the women's singles, Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont of Wilmington, Del., defeated Fay Muller of Australia, 6-3, 6-2, to give Uncle Sam three contenders in the quarter - finals. Defending champion Althea Gibson of New York and Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., gained the round of eight Saturday.

Top-seeded Cooper finally won the match 13-11, 6-3, 3-6, 14-12, but he needed a couple of netted volleys but Segal at key points to get through. The experts said Cooper, on this form, hardly looks like the next champion.

Second-seeded Mal Anderson of Australia defeated 1954 champion Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, 6-3, 10-8, 6-2.

Here's how they will meet in the next round: Miss Gibson vs. Miss Bloomer; Miss Arnold vs. Suzy Kormoczy, Hungary; Mrs. duPont vs. Miss Mortimer, and Miss Bueno vs. Miss Haydon.

Bragan New Spokane Boss

SPOKANE (AP)—Bobby Bragan was hired Monday as manager of the Spokane Indians of the Pacific Coast League. He succeeds Goldie Holt.

Bragan was let out only last week as manager of the Cleveland Indians and was replaced there by Joe Gordon.

The parent Los Angeles Dodgers let Holt go Sunday at Phoenix where the Indians, mired deep in the second division, split a doubleheader.

Spencer Harris, general manager of the Spokane club, said "the Dodger organization has spared nothing to get the very best man available.

Bragan thus will be returning to the PCL where he managed the Hollywood Stars for three years before being signed to manage the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1956.

Jensen's HR Spree Moves Him To Top

Red Sox Outfielder Has 23; Musial Closes in on Mays

NEW YORK (AP)—Boston's Jackie Jensen has powered his way into the American League home run lead with a June spree that has also enabled him to equal his entire output for 1957 and close in on his career high.

The slugging Red Sox outfielder has walloped 14 homers this month, giving him 23 in 69 games. Jensen had 23 circuit blows in 145 games last season. Jackie's major league high is 26 in 1955.

Jackie Jensen

The home run record for one month is 18 by Rudy York of Detroit in 1937. Jensen, 31-year-old San Francisco native, also has taken over the circuit's runs-batted-in lead from Bob Cerv of Kansas City. Jensen drove in 10 tallies last week, boosting his aggregate to 60. Cerv has 58, up three from last week.

Jensen shows a .300 batting mark, the same percentage owned by teammate Ted Williams. The veteran Williams has 11 home runs and 36 RBIs.

Another veteran, Mickey Vernon of Cleveland, collected only four hits in 23 times at bat last week and lost the batting lead to Nellie Fox of the Chicago White Sox.

Vernon dropped 25 points to .327 while Fox, with eight safeties in 27 tries, fell four points but took over first place with .332.

Preston Ward of Kansas City remained in third place despite a three point drop to .326. Vic Power of Cleveland moved into fourth position at .323.

In the National League, Stan Musial of St. Louis closed to within 10 points of pace-setting Willie Mays of San Francisco.

Mays slumped 11 points to .369 with an 8-for-29 performance while Musial lost one point to .359 with 11-for-31. Alvin Dark of Chicago held onto the No. 3 spot at .338 although he was far off his sizzling pace of two weeks ago. Dark had only six hits in 24 trips and fell 11 points. The records include Sunday's games.

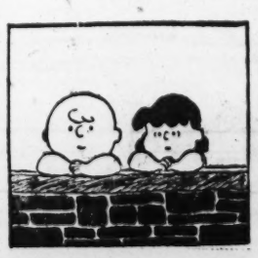

By hitting two homers, Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh lengthened his home run lead over Chicago's Ernie Banks. Thomas now has 22, four more than Banks, who failed to connect last week.

Thomas also is the runs-batted-in leader with 66.

Patterson Fight TV Sold for Closed Circuit

NEW YORK (AP)—Closed circuit television rights to the Patterson-Harris fight in Los Angeles Aug. 18 have been sold to TelePrompTer Corp., promoter Bill Rosensohn announced Monday.

There will be no home television, and the question of radio rights has not been settled. TelePrompTer has guaranteed $210,000 to the fight.

TelePropmpTer hopes that revenues will exceed its record showing of the Sugar Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight last March 25 when 364,876 ticket purchasers paid nearly $1,500,000.

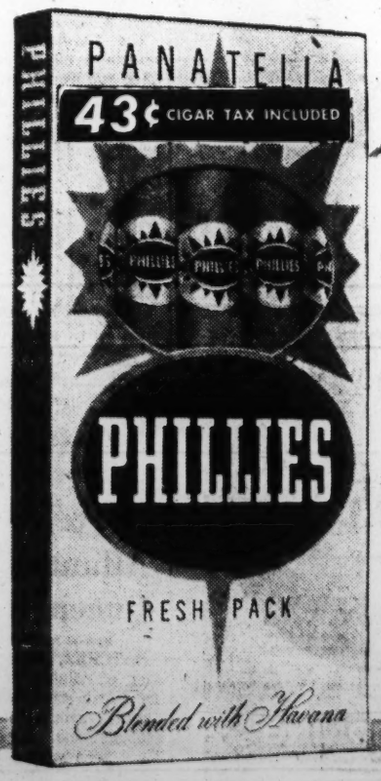

The fight between heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Roy Harris will be in Wrigley Field with the scale of admissions $30, $20, $10 and $5.

Thomson's 63 Sets British Open Record

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England (AP)—Former champion Peter Thomson fired a spectacular course record 63, and Frank Stranahan, chief American hope, scored a subpar 68 Monday in the first qualifying round of the British Open Golf championship.

The 27-year-old Australian, three-times winner of this tournament, clipped eight strokes off Lytham's par with his 31-32—63. The Lytham links has a par of 35-36—71 for its rugged 6,635 yardage.

Gene Sarazen, the 56-year-old Germantown, N.Y., squire who won this championship 26 years ago, scored 38-35—73 over the adjoining Fairhaven links.

Fred Brown, an amateur from Los Angeles, tied Lytham's par with 33-38—71 for second honors among the small American contingent.

Thomson's round broke the course record of 67 set by Fred Daly in 1952.

Other American scores were: Ed Kotlarczyk, Holland, Ohio, 37-36—73 at Fairhaven; Errie Ball, Oak Park, Ill., 38-38—76 at Fairhaven; Monte Bradley of Hillsboro, Tex., stationed with the Army in Germany, 38-39—77 at Fairhaven; M.Sgt. Charles T. Jennings, Medford, N.J., also stationed in Germany, 37-41—78 at Fairhaven.

Crax Cut O'Donnell And Activate Krsnich

NEW ORLEANS—Jack O'Donnell was taken off the active list, pending disposition of his contract, as the Atlanta Crackers made room on their roster for Mike Krsnich Monday.

O'Donnell, classed by Cracker manager Buddy Bates as his own personal "Most Valuable Player" in the Southern Association last year, has been used sparingly this season.

The lean lefthanded pitcher, indispensable as a handyman during the 1957 pennant drive and in the playoffs, will probably be assigned to some other club in the Milwaukee organization.

"O'Dee," a veteran of 11 years pro play and three years under Bates at Wichita, Topeka and Atlanta, currently has a 2-1 won-lost pitching record. He has allowed 41 hits and 20 runs in 40 innings. He whiffed 20, walked 26.

A year ago, O'Donnell was second leading Cracker hitter with a .286 average, appearing in 85 games as a pitcher, outfielder, first baseman and pinch-hitter.

A favorite of Cracker fans, O'Donnell won 16 and lost 10 games. He made the Southern Association record book by being the winning pitcher in four games on successive nights against Mobile.

"I hate to lose O'Dee," said Bates. "But it is about the only move I can make right now. I had to get Krsnich back on the active list."

Third baseman Krsnich, who jumped the club on May 5 while batting .239, started Monday night's game against New Orleans in left-field.

Braves Club 10 of 12 Hits, All Their Runs in 4th, 5th

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves concentrated their scoring with ten hits in two innings Monday night, walloping Cincinnati 9-2 as southpaw Warren Spahn became the first National League pitcher with 10 victories this season.

Spahn, who now has a 10-4 record, built his career mark against the Redlegs to 48-15. It was his 234th National League victory.

The seasoned southpaw allowed the Redlegs six hits and one walk.

The Braves kept their 2½-game lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated Los Angeles.

The Braves got all but two of their hits in the fourth and fifth innings, scoring four runs in the fourth and five in the next inning.

The losing pitcher, starter Bob Purkey, gave up five hits in 3⅔ innings as he suffered his fifth loss against eight victories.

Red-Hot Musial Bombs Bums, 4-2

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis, led by Stan Musial's recovered touch with a bat, defeated Los Angeles, 4-2, Monday night. Lindy McDaniel was the winning pitcher for the second-place Redbirds. He gained his fifth victory against seven defeats with a complete-game effort.

Musial, until recently a .400-plus hitter, had a home run and a double in three times at bat and drove in two runs. And that was the difference.

Musial homered in the first inning with the bases empty. Ken Boyer's double and Gene Green's RBI single added another run in the first and made rookie Bob Giallombardo's third major league start a one-inning venture.

The Cardinals scored a run without a hit on a walk, a wild pitch and shortstop Don Zimmer's throwing error in the third.

Easton, Bronson Add Names To Lakewood's Racing Field

Sutton Drives Sumar Special

By AL THOMY

Two more knights of the roaring road Monday presented their driving licenses for Friday's 100-mile championship car test at Lakewood.

They are Rex Easton, Springfield, Ill., who'll be in his Wyndotte Special, and Don Bronson of Champaign, Ill., in his Hoover Motors Express Special.

Not championship names, true, but Lakewood seemingly favors the non-favorites when the Indianapolis-type machines charge around its mile course.

It was announced that Len Sutton, who filed entry last week, would drive his Sumar Special in the July 4th race. This car is a twin ot the one that carried Pat O'Connor to his death in the Indianapolis 500.

There was still nothing definite on the entry of controversial driver Ed Elisian, who was hospitalized after a traffic jam on the New Bremen (Ohio) Speedway.

Elisian, one of the men in the third turn pile-up at Indianapolis, reportedly has returned to his Oakland, Calif., home.

"I've been trying to cotact him said promoter Carl Queen. "He wasn't hurt so we assume he'll be here."

"I've been trying to contact him for a committment, but thus far I haven't been able to reach him," said Queen. "He wasn't hurt so we'll assume he'll be here."

Several of the Americans in last week's Monza, Italy, blazing run won't be in the field here. It is known that winner Jim Rathmann, runner-up Jimmy Bryan and Ray Crawford have other plans.

Bryan, once the country's No. 1 dirt track driver, has turned modern and abandoned the soil for solid brick and asphalt.

Though regarded as a master of the dirt, Bryan never had much luck at Lakewood.

The field will include two previous winners at Lakewood, Eddie Sachs and George Amick, who incidently is waging a point duel with USAC leader Tony

Ed Elisian Still Expected

Bettenhausen, a Lakewood veteran who lists the track as one of his favorites.

Race men are wondering if this is the year rotund Bob Veith will conquer Lakewood. Two years ago, as USAC rookie of the year, Veith led the field to the last lap when his engine locked on him and he backed down the stretch—but not far enough.

Lynch Licks DiBiase in 10

Firing a steady stream of left jabs and hooks, Lynch overcame DiBiase's two-fisted body pounding to record his 16th victory in 19 starts and run his undefeat string to six.

Referee Al Berl and Judge Nick Gamboli both awarded Lynch five rounds, gave DiBiase four and called one even, Judge Harold Barnes scored it 6-3-1.

Elsewhere, Kent Hadley's 17th homer helped Little Rock hurdle Nashville, 4-2, and Memphis made it four-in-a-row by routing Chattanooga, 9-0.

Clutch relief pitching by Bill Dailey saved the Bears, who tallied two unearned runs.

Memphis tallied five times in the fifth inning to post a victory beside Ken McBride's name.

McBride allowed six hits and only two Lookouts reached third base. It was his third victory.

Mrs. Donnaud Wins with 178

Mrs. Albert Donnaud posted a neat 178 Monday to win the Arnold Mitchell Handicap tournament at Capital City Country Club. Mrs. Jim Clay, winner last week of the Wiley Moore tournament, posted 213 for the 54 holes. Mrs. Roy Massey followed with 217.

RECEIVES WARNER PLAQUE

HONOR COMES TO FRITZ ORR, FRIEND OF AMERICAN YOUTH

The plaque read, "To those individuals who by acts of charity, handiwork and unselfishness help inspire American youth in the American way of life."

That's Fritz Orr, the Atlantan who Monday received the Pop Warner National Award during ceremonies at the Rotary Club. The handle fits . . . and no honor was more richly deserved.

Orr, courting 50, has been involved in the moulding of youth into men for 30 years. And the influence of this man with the magnetic personality and impeccable character can be traced today into just about every walk of life.

Youth is his business, and it hasn't been without remuneration. But the financial aspect of his dealings with youth always has been secondary to the welfare of the child.

Currently some 500 children are participating in activities at Orr's outposts—the all-girl Merrie-Woode summer camp at Sapphire, N. C., and the year-round day school on Nancy Creek Road in northwest Atlanta.

No honor was more richly deserved . . . for that man who makes good people of today into better people of tomorrow.—CUNNINGHAM.

JUST ASK BIG BROTHER — Thirteen-year-old Richard Bramblett climbed into the boat in the back yard to tell 7-year-old sister Linda all about the seven-pound bass he caught Sunday morning. Richard was fishing with a black artificial worm at Flamingo Lake in south Atlanta. In addition to his angling prowess, Richard is a Babe Ruth League baseballer.

REPORT FROM OUTDOORS

Brush by Death Breeds Caution

By JIM CARSON

Jack Hogg is a happy husband and father, a competent but cautious boater, fisherman and swimmer. Yet he once came so near drowning he barely remembers that moment he was pulled into a boat.

Jim Carson

His face doesn't show the strain of that ordeal now, but it's printed in his memory, indelibly, every second of struggle for life.

It happened in October several years ago on Lake Burton.

Jack had been fishing at dawn and was ready to answer Buford LaPrade's breakfast bell. As he swung his boat in behind the inboard of a friend, an inviting cove and a couple of last-minute casts changed his mind.

He reached for his rod and reel, but the plug was caught in his landing net. Jack leaned forward just for a second to shake it loose. He didn't even stand up in the boat, just squatted.

But before he knew what happened, his boat crossed the wake of the boat ahead and Jack was spilled into the water. Anybody who knows Jack Hogg wouldn't think this much of an emergency, and at the time Jack himself didn't.

He began to swim for shore, quite confident he had escaped with only wet clothes. But his clothes began to get heavy with water, and he found himself without enough energy to take them off.

Some four or five times he went under from exhaustion and a wreaking stomach cramp. As he recalls it now, "I suppose I lost my confidence and was getting panicky.

"I went under, knowing I couldn't come back up. Meanwhile the boat ahead had circled back and spotted me. I must have been about three or four feet under, making the final struggle when I saw a rope. I grabbed, and with my last ounce of energy, hung on."

A friend fished an exhausted and sick Jack Hogg out of the water.

When I asked Jack about this experience he didn't make light of it. He spoke of it with great respect, and with the fervent hope that happy July Fourth boaters, swimmers, fishermen and water skiiers won't come this close to death this week.

"I was overconfident when I started swimming with my clothes on," Jack said.

Charlie Rice, safety services director of the American Red Cross, Atlanta chapter, was talking about boating and swimming accidents Monday. He recalled mishaps similar to Jack's, most of them fatal, however.

It may be too late when you hit the water to think about these things, but Charlie offers these tips:

"Don't overload your boat . . . don't stand up in boats . . . stay with the boat if it capsizes (if you can) . . . nobody has ever devised a safe way to combine drinking and water sports . . . if you can't swim, wear a life preserver, don't just sit on it . . . take care in operating boats around swimmers and skiiers . . . swim only in supervised areas . . . if someone is in trouble, try to use a pole or rope before you endanger the life of a rescuer."

ANTICIPATION OF THE TRIP— IT'S EASY, OFTEN MORE FUN

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

The other evening when I was pawing through a box of fishing tackle, trying to decide whether to select this color of spoon against that one, testing line between my fingers and feeling the monofilament for abrasions, and oiling a couple of squeaky reels, I thought about what Kermit Roosevelt, son of the famous Teddy, once said.

Charles Elliott

"Anticipation," he declared, "is half the delight of realization."

I don't know what he had in mind when he made that statement, but I'm sure the outdoors had some consideration in his thoughts. Kermit was a big game hunter as well as a fisherman, as he and his brother, T. R. Jr., followed big game trails all over the world to include some magnificent trophies in their collection.

My own humble opinion is that Kermit put too small a price tag on anticipation. Even the most successful ventures to the woods or waters can do no more than double the delight of making plans, or of enjoying every little detail of expectation. And many times the actual experience lacks a whale of a lot of living up to its prospects.

I must admit that I have some mighty interesting hours with my head stuck to the collar button in a tackle box, on the verge of making a trip somewhere for the purpose of fooling a fish. What I haul along as angling gear depends entirely on where I plan to exhibit my lures. I can sit in my den and picture a sinuous, dark-water river, overhung with gray moss. Under those tapestries are recessed nooks against the shoreline.

In my thoughts I make a perfect cast that skitters close to the bank—(though when I do make the actual cast, it'll probably hang in the tree)—and see the explosion of a mammoth bass. That's top water country and I pick around for lures made to fish the surface. There are at least a dozen varieties that pop, gurgle, crawl, hop and go through an assortment of gyrations to attract a fish.

While I am selecting those top water plugs, bugs and baits, I live that fishing experience with all its excitement and pleasure of remote places. And in anticipation, I am able to eliminate the unpleasant features, as mosquitoes, garulous guides and leaky boats.

For fast trout and smallmouth water, I swap the top water lures for a collection of spoons, spinner type baits and darting minnows which resemble the natural life in the particular stream when I plan to show my wares.

For the deep, artificial impoundments, the trays of my tackle box are likely to be lined with trolling gee-gaws that go deep and dig the points where big bass hang out and wait until someone comes along with an exciting tidbit of metal, wood or feathers. To this collection I also add a surface bait or two for late afternoon when the shadows are long and the lunkers move into the shallows to feed.

Believe me, this item of anticipation is a sizable factor of any trip to the outdoors, whether it's for fishing, hunting, camping, or even hiking one of the wilderness trails. If you are like most of us, you get almost as much pleasure out of making plans as you have in the actual experience.

And age hasn't got a thing to do with it.

A FISHERMAN SOUNDS OFF

NO BOUT ADOUBT IT! WOMEN, GR-R-R-R

By CHARLES DICKEY

All this talk about togetherness for the family may be okay for tiddlywinks and bridge but when it comes to fishing the wife should stay at home where she belongs.

A wife has no more business out fishing with her husband than he would have attending a sorority pajama party.

Since the dawn of time, man has been able to escape feminine tongues by going to the solitude of a nearby lake or stream. But now there is no wilderness area so remote that you won't run across some woman flailing the water with a fishing line.

Going fishing with a woman is about as exciting as watching last night's TV movie for the second time. In the first place, the man has to do all the preparation for the trip.

While the husband goes to the garage, gets the boat loaded on the trailer, puts the motor on, carries the fishing tackle out and puts the dog away, the woman stands helplessly by or is upstairs putting on a second coat of eyebrow shadow.

The man does the driving to the lake, launches the boat, takes the tackle and bait, checks the oars, tests the motor and then helps the woman into the boat.

Before he can get his line in the water, the wife has her line hung up. The husband patiently takes the rod and untangles the hook from a sunken log. Before he can get back to his fishing again, the wife casts and catches a bird's nest. The husband has to spend ten minutes salvaging the line.

Now, what the heck kind of fun is this for the husband?

But I'll say this for the women. When it comes to fixing a lunch they're the best — if you like two radishes, pickles and olives after a hard morning.

I don't know about you boys but my wife is staying home from now on when I go fishing.

Mental Patient Kills 2 Detectives in Siege

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—Two Pawtucket detectives were shot to death Monday when they invaded a dwelling to arrest a heavily-armed former mental patient.

Detectives Thomas Truesdale, 58, and Emil Newberg, 56, were shot as they tried to seize Robert Genereux, 35, who had barricaded himself in a bathroom of his mother's home near busy Route 1.

Police said Genereux fired several shots from a German luger pistol through the bathroom door when the two officers ordered him to surrender.

Truesdale was shot in a lung. Newberg was shot in the stomach. They died at Rhode Island Hospital.

The five-hour siege of the house started about noon after police received reports Genereux had fired two shots through the wall of a vacant tenement next door to his home Sunday night and was heavily armed.

His mother, Mrs. Adrienne Mitchell, about 65, left the house before the shooting occurred. Earlier reports said she had been held captive by her son.

After the two detectives were shot, some 40 policemen surrounded the three-story tenement house and raked the first floor, where Genereux lived, with machine gun and tear gas.

Genereux was seized by police Capt. Joseph E. McAlvey and Det. James E. Brennan, who shot their way into the bathroom where he had barricaded himself in a closet. He was armed with the pistol when taken.

Genereux was hospitalized with head wounds apparently inflicted when he was subdued. His condition was not serious.

The Veterans Hospital at Brockton, Mass., said Genereux committed himself voluntarily a couple of years ago and refused to come back after being issued a pass a few weeks ago.

The hospital said he had never shown any tendency to violence, except toward himself.

Is there any hope for Our Hopeless Families?

Recent statistics prove more than ever that most of our delinquency and welfare problems are centered in the same families—generation after generation! Can we really do something about the 6% of families who use more than half the welfare dollars while breeding criminals?

Now, in this week's Saturday Evening Post, read the startling facts about these "sick" families! Find out what surveys have shown about attempts at rehabilitation, along with some actual case histories that will shock and amaze you!

And you'll learn about the radical new approach to this problem being taken by one of our large cities that may knock the props from under our soaring crime rate! Read "Is There Hope for 'Hopeless' Families?"

Alabama NAACP Faces A New Contempt Charge

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People got out from under a heavy contempt of court fine Monday, but still faced the threat of a new contempt conviction.

A U.S. Supreme Court decision which nullified the $100,000 fine levied in state court two years ago found the NAACP accused of contempt again on a charge of violating a court injunction.

Although the two contempt charges allege separate offenses, they are closely related. Both came as outgrowths of Atty. Gen. John Patterson's campaign to put the NAACP out of business in Alabama.

The injunction the organization now stands accused of violating was issued by Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones in the first of a series of legal actions which led ultimately to a contempt decree and $100,000 fine for refusal to produce NAACP records in court.

The injunction, put into effect two years ago at Patterson's request, remained in force while the NAACP appealed the contempt conviction all the way to the Supreme Court.

While it set the contempt order aside, the nation's highest court refused to dissolve the injunction on the grounds it was still within the jurisdiction of state courts.

The restraining order issued by Jones on June 1, 1956, prohibited the NAACP from further operations in Alabama, Patterson, at whose request the order was granted, contended the NAACP never had registered under Alabama law as an out-of-state corporation.

Ike Is Voted Free Hand in Atom Swaps

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was given Monday much of the authority he had sought for sharing additional atomic military secrets with U.S. allies.

The Senate passed on to the White House legislation providing more freedom to exchange weapons information and materials than the government has possessed since the first atomic energy law was enacted 12 years ago.

As revised by the Senate and House, the exchange bill would enable Congress to veto any agreement to share U. S. knowledge in the nuclear weapons field. No such agreement could take effect without lying before Congress 30 days this session or 60 days in future years. In that period Congress could pass a resolution to kill the pact.

abreast with recurring expenditures," Williams asserted.

However, the state auditor questioned whether the present rate of collections will keep up with current spending.

Georgia spent at the rate of $324.7 million this year, Thrasher reported. Although some items in the budget were billed as "nonrecurring," Thrasher said that in reality it appears that only the $2.5 million given to Georgia Tech for a nuclear reactor is actually non-recurring.

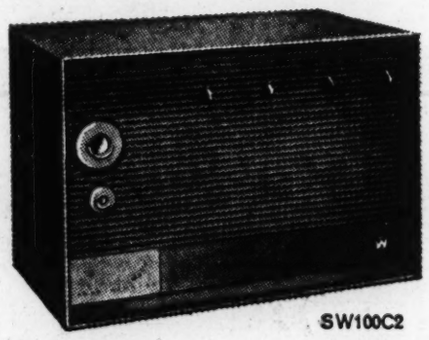

In the new fiscal year, the common schools are expected to get about $11 million more and the colleges about $3 million more. In addition, Thrasher said, there may be considerable outlays for the Brunswick port and Stone Mountain.

Debbie Sparkles in 'Happy Feeling'

By PAUL JONES

After "Tammy and the Bachelor" turned out to be one of the big box-office hits of last season, Universal-International decided it would try the same entertainment recipe again. It successfully has cooked up another delightful dish in "This Happy Feeling," now showing at the Fox Theater.

Jones

Debbie Reynolds, the charming little eyeful who made Tammy so bright and entertaining is teamed with Johnny Saxon, both strong favorites of the teen-agers, in a romantic romp which is sparkled with some good laugh-getting situations.

The play is adapted from F. Hugh Herbert's "For Love or Money" and it has lots of the subtle comedy mixed in with slapstick to make it a film which should appeal to all ages. The plot revolves around the triangle with Debbie falling in love with a man twice her age and then later turning her attentions to a handsome young fellow who has had his eyes on her all along.

Unlike some of the comedies which are meant to be "escapism" and little more, this film has been handsomely mounted in Technicolor and CinemaScope and the backgrounds are somewhat pretentious.

The cast in the play is well rounded with Debbie and Johnny taking the main bows. But, good support is afforded by Curt Jurgens, Alexis Smith and Mary Astor.

"This Happy Feeling" is the type of picture most people like to see this time of year. It has charm and a great deal of humor.

Broad St. Lane For Buses Eases 5 p.m. Traffic

Transit movement has been speeded up 50 per cent and automobile movement 149 per cent on Broad street during the evening rush hour by marking off a lane exclusively for transit vehicles, the Central Atlanta Improvement Assn. said.

Transit speed improved 10 per cent and auto speeds over 27 per cent in the morning, the association said.

Adams Case a Blunder, GOP's Shaw Warns Here

By CLAUDE GEORGE SR.

The Sherman Adams-Bernard Goldfine episode may be a serious blunder for President Eisenhower's administration, a ranking Georgia GOP official says.

Wilbur J. Shaw, executive secretary of the Georgia Republican Central Committee, says the present investigation in Washington could have damaging effects on the party's vote-getting machine.

"There are certain elements of the voting public that believe everything they hear, whether it's false or true," Shaw said.

He added that most people had rather believe the bad side of the news than the good.

"Regardless of the President's calmness or Adams' incorruptible attitude or his real personal quality, the incident will be weighed finally by the public," he said.

Shaw said he hopes Georgia Republicans will watch the tactics being used in the incident closely.

"There are individuals in the Republican Party and the Democratic Party throwing rocks in this case and then hiding their hands," he said.

$10,971 for Cancer

Fulton County's unit of the Georgia Colored Division of the American Cancer Society raised more funds during the 1958 campaign than ever before.

John Emanuel, director of the unit, said during a recent victory tea held at the Phyllis Wheatley YWCA, that his group raised $10,971.39 for the year.

The previous high was in 1957 when workers raised $9,398.59.

Results reported by the unit's various divisions were:

Business and special gifts, $2,081.10; residential, $6,807.35; clubs and organizations, $63; schools and colleges, $2,012.44, and memorials, $7.50.

With the Colleges

Willie P. Payne, professor and chairman of the department of biology at Morris Brown College, was recently presented his Ph.D. degree in zoology at the University of Iowa.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, will speak at Atlanta University's summer school forum at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. His subject will be "Religious Systems in the Space Age."

Some 48 students from 11 states are participating in the Institute for High School Teachers of Science and Mathematics sponsored at Atlanta University this summer by the National Science Foundation.

Civitans Plan Installation of New Officers

Zachary T. Layfield will be installed as new president of the Civitan Club of Atlanta at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Other new officers are Quentin Anderson, Albert J. Bows and John R. Bowman, vice-presidents; Hugh M. Mercer, treasurer, Clayton J. Cosse, secretary; William F. Methvin Jr., sergeant-at-arms and Bernard W. Abrams, assistant sergeant-at-arms. Directors are Richard L. Gatewood, D. R. McCleary and Greer Z. Roberts.

State C of C Selects 4 Council Chairmen

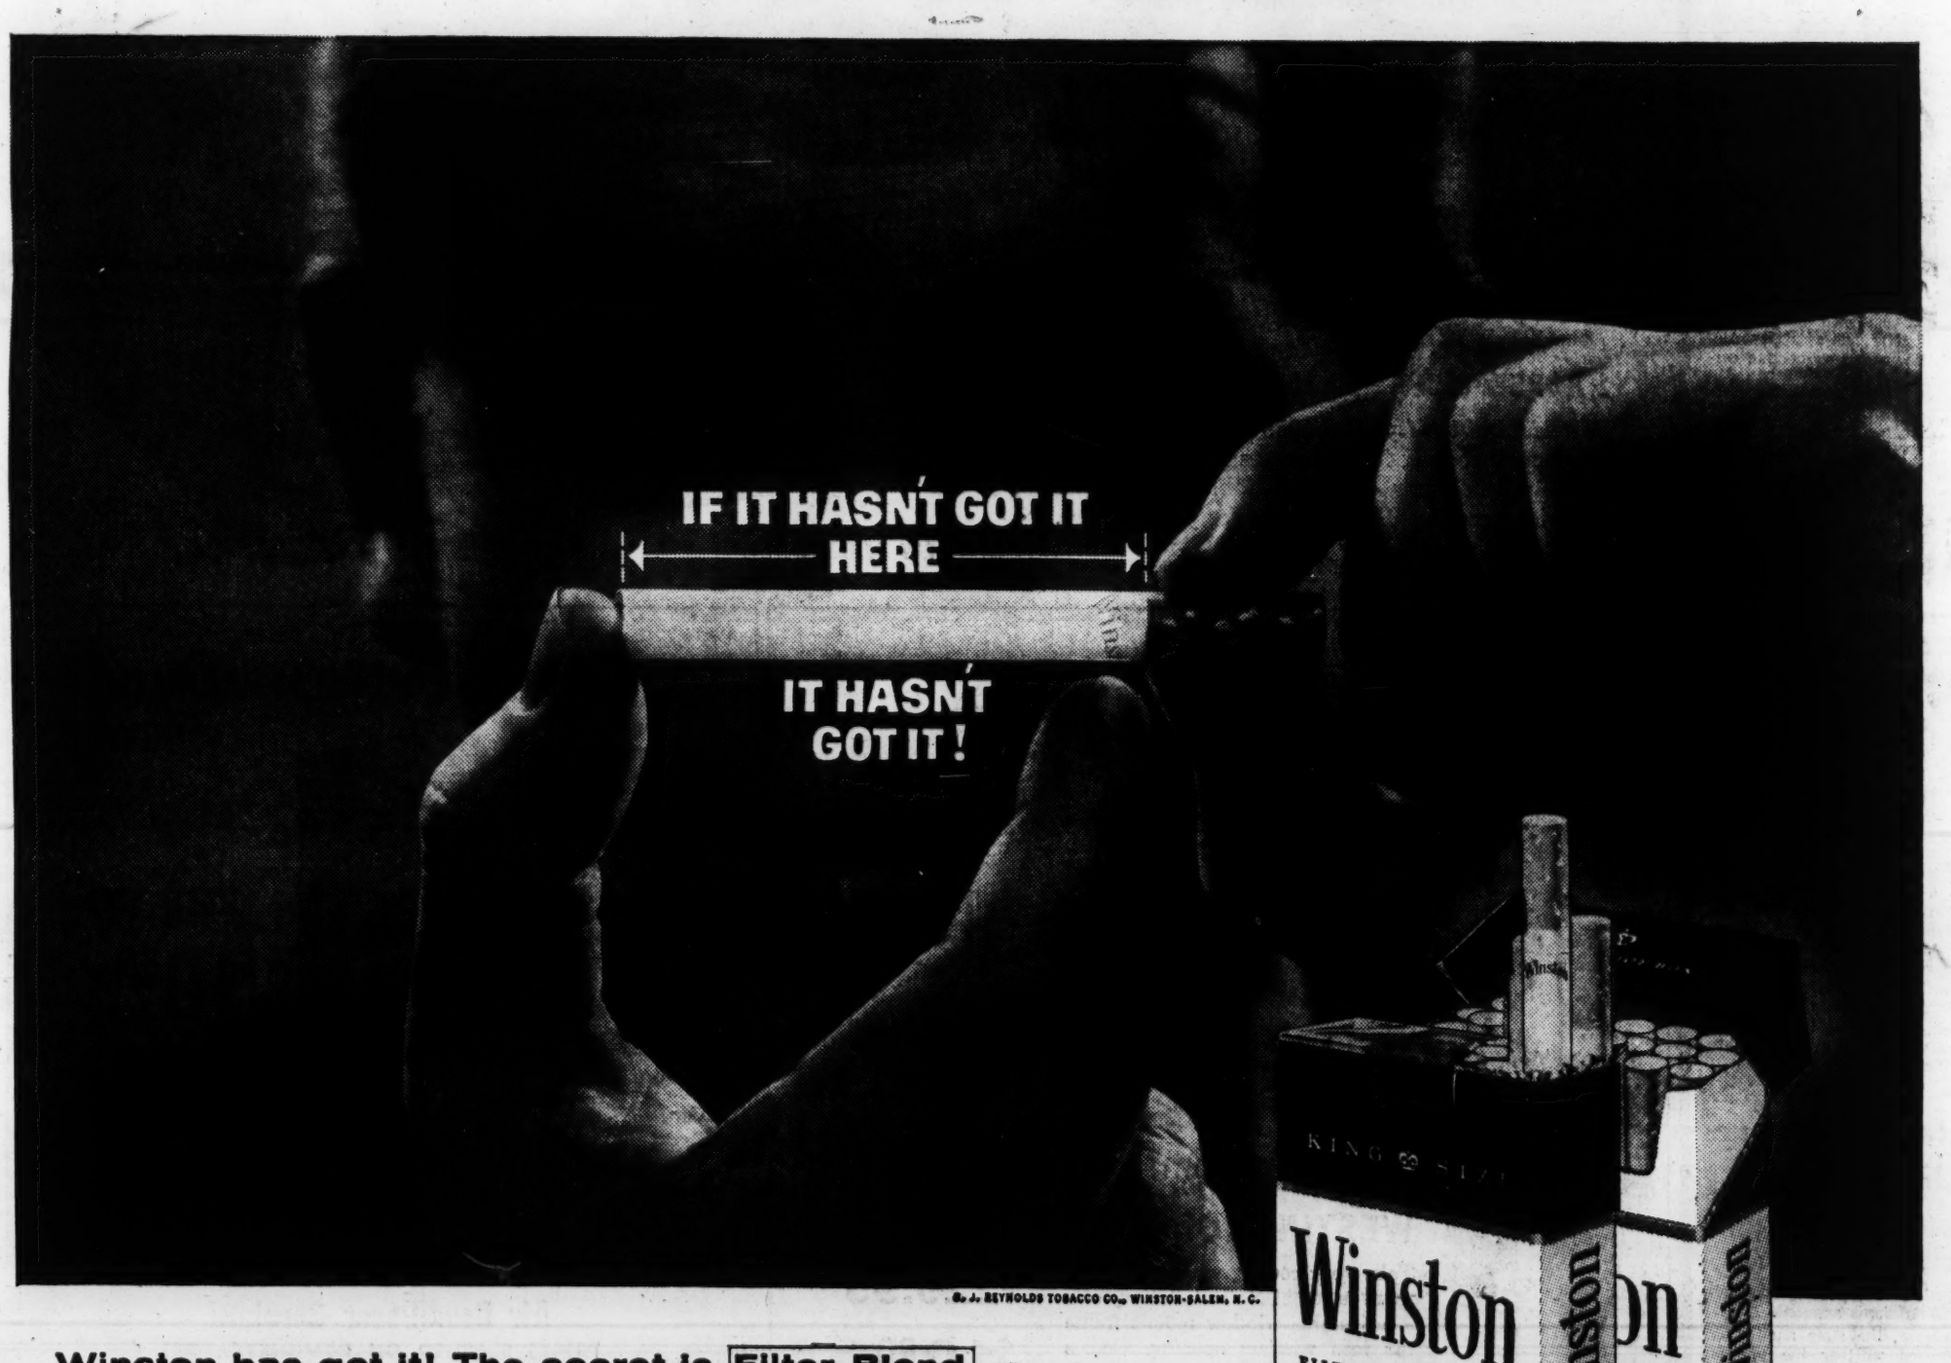

Four Georgia businessmen have been named to the chairmanships of special councils established within the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce.

The new chairmen and their councils are T. M. Hines Jr., employe relations; Hugh Mercer, taxation and spending; C. R. Rader, unemployment compensation, and Floyd Newton, workmen's compensation.

Georgian Wins Retrial In Raid Without Warrant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday ordered a new trial for a Georgia farmer convicted on illicit liquor charges after federal agents raided his home at night without a search warrant.

The court acted on an appeal by Roy Jones, of near Dawsonville, Ga. His attorney said the federal agents made a vicious raid "that would do justice to a police state in the hey-day of its reign."

Justice Harlan delivered the 7-2 decision. Justice Clark wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justice Burton concurred.

The wife of Jones testified at his trial that she sought to bar entry to her home, asked the agents to show a search warrant, and asked them to wait until Jones returned to the house.

Instead, she said the agents "kept slinging me against the side of a wall" and eventually pushed their way into the house. Mrs. Jones testified that a state officer seized a shotgun held by her 12-year-old son, and that one of the agents told the boys: "You stand back or I'll slap your brains out."

Jones was arrested when he returned home about 10 o'clock at night. He claimed ownership of a still in the house, but denied that 413 gallons of whiskey found in a truck on a public road in front of the house had come from his still.

In the majority opinion, Justice Harlan said it is settled doctrine "that probable cause for belief that certain articles subject to seizure are in a dwelling cannot of itself justify a search warrant."

He said the courts have time again "underscored the essential purpose of the 4th amendment to shield the citizen from unwarranted intrusions into his privacy."

Harlan said that the testimony of the federal offices made clear that their purpose in entering Jones' home was to search for distilling equipment and not to arrest Jones.

Crash Victim Tosses Rocks, Attracts Aid

Constitution State News Service

ELLIJAY — An injured youth Monday attracted attention to himself and two companions—one of whom was dead—by tossing rocks from a car wreck scene toward passing autos, the state patrol said.

Cpl. L. B. Nunnally and Trooper J. F. Rutland said an unidentified motorist stopped at the Blue Ridge patrol station to complain about the rock throwing. Nunnally and Rutland went to investigate the rock tossing.

On State Highway 5, 10 miles north of Ellijay, officers said they found where a car had plunged over an embankment.

Dallas Monroe McGill, 18, of near Blue Ridge, was in the car dead, officers said. They added Charlie Henry, 24, of Mineral Bluff, was pinned under the car suffering a broken leg and internal injuries.

Donald Lee Kincaid, 19, of Blue Ridge, who suffered a broken leg in the mishap, had managed to climb up the embankment and was tossing rocks at passing cars in an effort to attract attention and secure help, officers said.

Kincaid and Henry were admitted to Watkins Memorial Hospital in Ellijay, officers said.

Officers said Kincaid told them he was asleep when the crash occurred. They added Henry was too seriously hurt to question immediately.

Missing Bride Is Found Slain

DENTON, Md. (AP)—A 19-year-old bride of three months, missing from her home since Saturday, was found murdered Monday—a white cord tied tightly around her neck—in a wooded area near the Delaware state line.

State police identified her as Mrs. Ruth Ellen Cannon, a 5-foot-2 red-haired former student nurse at Peninsula General Hospital.

Her body, clothed only in underwear, was found at nearby Hickman, not far from the home of Clayton Edward Breeding, 26-year-old ex-convict who state police sought on a charge of murder.

ENJOYING A PLACE IN GEORGIA'S SUN

Star of Theater-Under-the-Stars Joy Nichols

London's Joy Nichols Here For U.S. Debut Under Stars

Making her American stage debut in the title role of Adelaide in "Guys and Dolls," opening show of the Theater-Under-the-Stars season, is a vivacious, transplanted London star who wants to see a cotton field.

Joy Nichols arrived in Atlanta Monday from New York where she has been biding her time for a year to play American parts.

Waiting is hard for any actress but Miss Nichols found it gave her time "to really get to know my six-year-old daughter, Roberta and feel like a housewife again." Her husband is American-born Wally Peterson. Roberta and her mother took up ballet lessons in New York and appeared in the school's recital as a mother-daughter team in costumes which Miss Nichols made.

A stage and television star, Miss Nichols says she decided to give up her career in England "because America is the mecca of show business."

Before coming to the United States, a move which she describes as "a big gamble," she starred for 18 months in "Pajama Game."

"People here are probably wondering how I'll do in a part which demands a Brooklyn accent," she said, "but I've made accents a specialty." This was entirely believable as the lovely brown-eyed actress spoke in capable American dialect. "I once even did 'Gone With the Wind' over the BBC," she added.

Miss Nichols is enjoying her stay in Atlanta, looking forward to opening night, July 8, and her anticipated visit to a cotton field.

Patrol, Jaycees Team Up To Cut Holiday Deaths

About 400 Junior Chamber of Commerce members and the State Patrol will combine forces Thursday in an effort to slice the Fourth of July holiday road toll.

The Jaycees will man refreshment booths, serving coffee and soft drinks to motorists, on the principal highways around Atlanta for 36 hours beginning Thursday evening.

The State Troopers are hoping to accomplish a safety record equal to that of last July 4—but the odds are all against them.

Last year four persons were killed and 85 injured during a 102-hour period extending from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday. The Patrol Accident Reporting Division this year is predicting 12 deaths and 117 injuries between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Sunday.

Meanwhile, Gov. Griffin called on the patrol, local law enforcement officers, civic clubs and the press to help hold down traffic mishaps.

Griffin also noted there has been "an alarming number" of boating and swimming deaths in recent weeks. He urged "all Georgians who plan to boat, swim or fish" during the weekend to exercise common-sense precautions.

Explorer Scout Troop 76 also will operate a refreshment booth on Campbellton road, SW.

The Jaycee booths and their locations:

West End club, Gordon road and Bankhead Highway; Northside and Atlanta Jaycees, Mt. Paran road and the Northeast Expressway; DeKalb club, Northeast Expressway.

North DeKalb club, Buford Highway and Peachtree Industrial boulevard; Tucker, Lawrenceville Highway; Avondale and Glenwood clubs, Memorial drive and Indian Creek road; Greater Lithonia and Rockdale County clubs, Covington Highway at Lithonia; Lakewood club, Ga. 42 at Atlanta General Depot; Ford Plant, and College Park and East Point, U.S. 29 at Main and Church streets in East Point.

John A. Sibley Receives Rotary Service Award

John A. Sibley, chairman of the board of the Trust Company of Georgia, was presented the Rotary Club of Atlanta's 15th annual Armin Maier community service award Monday.

Edward D. Smith, president of the First National Bank, received the Ivan Allen club service award.

W. W. McManus, King Hardware president, was installed as president of the Atlanta Rotary Club, succeeding Maj. Clark Howell, publisher of The Constitution.

Sibley was cited for his participation in local activities that includes serving as a trustee of Agnes Scott College, Berry School, Atlanta Art Assn., the YMCA, Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority, and is board chairman of Egleston Hospital for Children and vice chairman of the Southern Research Institute, Birmingham.

Smith served as chairman of the club's program committee.

They're 'a Sight' At Tacky Party

By YOLANDE GWIN

Some people have no trouble at all looking tacky. It is just natural for them to be "a sight" instead of "a vision." But sometimes it takes a lot of planning for people to achieve a tacky look, especially when they are nice looking and always wear pretty and fashionable clothes.

So there was lot of scurrying around when the families out in the Land O'Lakes section decided they would have a tacky party in conjunction with their square dance party.

"Everybody has to wear a costume," said one of the chairmen. "And the clothes have to be tacky, terrible and tawdry. It won't be how good you look, but how bad you look!"

SQUARE DANCING

Everybody gathered for the party and the square dancing at the Sarah Smith School on Old Ivy road.

There were big doings, for there were tables laden with potato salad, sandwiches, stuffed eggs, pickles, cakes and soft drinks. Some of the officials of the club had asked John Graham, a teacher at Murphy High School, to come out as caller for the square dancing. That was going in full swing when the judges arrived to cast scrutinizing eyes over the "fashions" worn by the guests.

The judges were Chuck Holloway, Karl Nonweiler, Forrest Collins and Ed Housman. They lined up behind a big table and started taking notes while the others (mostly adults) were dancing or (mostly children) running up and down the school gym licking ice cream cones by the dozen.

BLARE OF MUSIC

There was a blare of loud music from the loudspeaker to signal everybody to "line up for the judging."

Then the parade began. It made the Shriners look downright stylish. And the sack dresses? They were the originals.

Finally the winners were announced. Mrs. Ed Lindgren Jr. and Homer Stanfield were first prize winners. "Prizes" were a bunch of plastic cocktail stirrers for Mrs. Lindgren and a little brown jug for Mr. Stanfield.

"Mother (Mrs. C. H. Patterson) will die when she hears this," said Mrs. Lindgren. "Everything I have on came from her attic. She told me I could wear any old thing I could find, and will her face be red!"

PINK SLIPPERS

Mrs. Lindgren's winning outfit was a blue and white dotted jumper worn over a red, green and yellow plaid shirt. She wore white cotton stockings, pink satin slippers and a yellow hat trimmed with purple flowers.

Mr. Stanfield wore red, white and blue printed shorts—easily visible above his sagging blue-jeans—a flowered shirt and one of his wife's old straw hats trimmed with a blue plume.

Runners-up were Mrs. James Parten, Dr. Marion Greene and Mrs. Ben Sisk. Mrs. Parten, said some of the judges, was "overdone" as a Caribbean matron; therefore was tacky.

Mrs. Sisk said:

"My husband wanted to wear this old moth-eaten tee shirt but I beat him out of it," said Mrs. Sisk, as she described her fashion.

With the cotton shirt she wore a black-sequined jabot, a black taffeta skirt and a pink hat trimmed with one sprig of wheat.

Dr. Greene wore a hat about three sizes too large and had it pulled down over his ears. False buck teeth added something to his general tacky appearance.

McCardell In Fashion Hall of Fame

The designers chosen to receive the 1958 Coty American Fashion Critics Award have been announced by Bettina Ballard of Town & Country, this year's chairman of the jury.

The jury of 79 fashion editors who make the annual selections designated the Hall of Fame Award, the Coty Award's highest degree, as a posthumous honor to Claire McCardell, the great designer of "American Look" fashions, who died last March.

Ben Zuckerman, noted New York creator of coats, suits and tailored dresses, was chosen for a Return Award, having received the "Winnie" in 1952.

Arnold Scaasi, young New York designer especially noted for evening fashions, will receive the coveted "Winnie," as the Coty trophy is known.

The jury will make two special awards this year. One of the bronze plaques will go to Donald Brooks, young designer of casual clothes for Hedges of New York, and the other to Jean Schlumberger, internationally known jeweler who designs in America for Tiffany & Co.

Choose an Empire Silhouette For First Black Crepe Dress

The first black crepe dresses that are forerunners of fall are beginning to appear, and I for one am very excited about them. The newest are in the modern Empire silhouette—high waisted with a pretty fitted bustline and a barely fitted body line.

This is such a young and such a pretty silhouette that I do not see how anyone can fail to like it—including the recalcitrant males who were so vociferous in denouncing the chemise. Sometimes these Empire black crepes have a narrow velvet ribbon sash with floating ends. Sometimes there is a sparkling rhinestone pin with a tiny dangle placed at the bustline.

Pictures Are Passe, Says Decor Expert

By MARY PRIME

Instead of framed pictures, designers this year will give us such offbeat wall decor as stained glass panels, 45 by 65-inch scrolls, plaques, and ceramic tiles. Even mirrors will be decorated with plaques, says Emily Gordon, who works with interior designers in the United States and Europe. She helps adapt their designs into more than 4,000 pieces of contemporary furniture and accessories for Raymor, a home furnishing distributor.

"There's a growing trend for wall decor as a color accent rather than the actual representation of a painting. People want big, bold pieces to blanket the wall as the focal point of a room," said Miss Gordon.

GLASS TO DIVIDE ROOMS

She predicted that stained glass will be put on walls, mirrors, and picture windows and used in screens and room dividers.

Other decorations include reproductions of primitive ceremonial figures done in bronze and mounted on wood; large ceramic butterflies on wood; plaques of chipped mosaic; and surfboard-shaped walnut plaques.

"It's part of a trend to the hand-crafted look, unusual yet functional furnishings, and emphasis on color, surface, and texture instead of silhouette, said Miss Gordon.

WALNUT MOST POPULAR

More wood will be used in accessories and walnut will be the most popular wood.

Modern furniture will become softer, less stark and cold, she said.

"Contemporary design this year is a definite throwback to the simple lines of early American period when furniture was what it was and no geegaws. We have modern furniture now which we wouldn't have dreamed of marketing several years ago," said Miss Gordon.

Examples of this trend include a contemporary grandfather's clock and a line of furniture which combines wood slats, caning and wrought iron.

Traditional overtones also creep into modern ceramics, inspired by primitive art and early Mediterranean and Far Eastern cultures, she said.

Sisters To Hold Reunion During Visit

When Mrs. Eugene Kennedy arrives from New York on Saturday and her sister, Mrs. Parker Strickland, comes from Blackshear, they will form the inspiration for a delightful family reunion. The duo will be guests of their uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Kirkland of Peachtree Battle avenue.

Mrs. R. G. Peters and her daughter, Caren, have already arrived from Reno, Nev., to visit the former's sister, Mrs. James Weisiger of Avondale Estates. Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Weisiger are also sisters of Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Strickland, and the quartet will get together at numerous informal gatherings planned during their stay.

Afterward Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Peters will visit their brother, Carl Wilson, and Mrs. Wilson in Jacksonville before returning home.

MRS. WHITE HANCOCK will return today from Houston, Tex., where she attended the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hancock Weaver, to Frederick Arthur Buxton. She will be accompanied by her grandchildren, Peggy and Jimmy Weaver, who will spend the summer as her guests.

Larry White, who accompanied his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. White, to Houston for the wedding, will spend several days there with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cox Jr. Later he will go to Lake Charles, La., for a month's visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cox Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. White flew home on Saturday evening after the wedding.

DR. AND MRS. JACK NORRIS have taken a house at Highlands, N.C., for the first two weeks of July, and they leave today with their entire family for a gala house party.

"The house has three floors and a huge playroom," said Mrs. Norris, "so there will be room for everybody. There will be 16 of us in all. We had the same house last summer and had such a good time, we are looking forward to repeating it this year."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN F. ECHOLS are busy entertaining their two young grandsons, William S. Burks III and John Echols Burks of Mobile, who are guests at their home on E. Wesley road. The boys, who are 9 and 7, are sons of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. William S. Burks Jr. of Mobile.

MRS. JAMES E. DUFFELL will fly to Dayton, Ohio, on Friday to be the guest for 10 days of her son and his wife, Major and Mrs. James H. Proctor.

ATLANTANS SAILING Saturday from New Orleans aboard the SS Alcoa Corsair will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Brown of 2960 Arden Rd., NW, and the Irwin Greenbaums of 1779 Merton Rd., NE. They will cruise in the Caribbean for the next 2½ weeks, visiting the colorful islands and the northern coast of South America.

SHORTLY AFTER RECEIVING HIS DEGREE from Emory University, A. Kempton Haynes Jr. left for a six-week tour of the Holy Land and the Middle East. Afterward he will visit Athens, Rome, Naples, Venice, Brussels, Paris, London and points of interest in Germany, Denmark and Scotland.

Mr. Haynes will return in time to enter Boston University School of Theology in September.

SAILING YESTERDAY from Mobile for a 16-day cruise in the Caribbean were Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Wood of Avondale Estates.

MISS SANDRA HARTMAN of Waxahachie, Tex., has joined her mother, Mrs. Ralph Hartman, here after a visit to Miss Love Beavers in Newnan. The pair will drive back to Texas after a visit to Mrs. Hartman's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Shelton.

NORTH CAROLINIANS here for a visit are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Martin of Raleigh, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Wing at their home on Chippewa Pl., NE.

MISS LOUISE MATHIS of Decatur and Miss Penny Warren of Roswell are among the Shorter students listed to highest honor during the past school year, according to announcement made by Dr. Allen Johnson, Shorter dean.

Atlantans listed to high honor were Misses Murphey, Claire Sims, Eleanor Johnson and Carol Shook. Miss Beverly Linton was listed to honor for the year and Miss Shirley Ann Berry was on the same list for the second semester.

WEDS AT CLUB
Mrs. John Morse Jr.

Miss Shapiro Is Wed to Mr. Morse

The Standard Town and Country Club formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Carol Jane Shapiro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore T. Shapiro, to John Morse Jr. of Brookline, Mass.

Rabbi Jacob Rothschild was the officiating minister. A wedding dinner, given by Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro, followed the service.

Robert Neuwirth of Great Neck, Long Island, was best man for Mr. Morse, and his usher-groomsmen included Alfred I. Karp, Alan R. Morse Jr., Jay Riseman and Timothy Morse, all of Brookline, Mass.; Stanley A. Makowitz of Jamaica, N.Y.; George H. Shapiro and Allan J. Shapiro of Atlanta.

Miss Mary Anna Shapiro was her sister's maid of honor, and serving as bridesmaids were Miss Sally Elsas, Mrs. David Kamrass, Miss Barcy Proctor of Worcester, Mass.; Miss Suzanne Routman of Sharon, Pa.; Miss Judith Ann Schein of South Orange, N.J., and Miss Lynn Selig of Cincinnati.

Mr. Shapiro gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of silk peau de soie and Alencon lace embroidered in seed pearls, and featuring a formal train. Her veil of illusion fell from an Elizabethan crown of matching lace, and she carried a cascade of valley lilies.

Mr. Philip Kaplan of Atlanta, and Miss Marjorie Rieder of Bridgeport, Conn., kept the bride's book at the reception.

Exhibits Of Life

The State Department didn't ask me to help them whip up that American exhibit at the Brussel's fair and it's just as well, I suppose. No matter what we displayed to the world as representative of America there's bound to be complaints from some quarters, particularly those with a guilty conscience.

Have you ever noticed that the most militant best foot putters-forward are the ones who are a little guilty about the situation in the backroom? I know from my own housekeeping experience that I'm eager to keep the company in the living room when I haven't washed the dishes or made up the beds. And the really good housekeepers can relax because they know the whole place is spruce and tidy.

As good as we love our native land, I suppose there will always be areas that are not spruce and tidy, that call for an explanation, if not apology. And all of us have widely different ideas of what's worth exhibiting to the world.

Personally, I wouldn't complain about the hot dogs and the beauty queens, as some Congressmen have done. I suppose they are representative of one facet of American life and they might even be "typical," if that's what the exhibitors are seeking. At least they are a little warmer and more personal than great industrial exhibits. Watching the wheels of industry turn in America may be fascinating to tourists from Rangoon and Riga but most machinery either fills me with numbing boredom or creeping terror. (Except, of course, the newepaper press. It's a frightful looking monster but its roar is one of the most alive and exciting sounds in the world to me.)

Actually I can't imagine how you would go about designing an exhibit that would best tell the world about the United States. Since members of Congress started finding fault with the current exhibit I've been thinking about it and the old formula, "What do I love about this land?" would not work.

For instance, friendliness. How do you make an exhibit of friendliness? How can you tell people in other lands that policemen and bus drivers and taxi drivers in America are sociable souls who are friendly and chatty, who very frequently go out of their way to perform extra, warm-hearted acts of kindness? How could you demonstrate speedy response that comes to any known case of need or trouble? The open-handed way people trust each other, the doors that are left unlocked, the people who give regularly and anonymously to other people. You can't make a show out of these qualities but they are the very things that make life in a big, pushy city tenable to most of us.

The city is not my natural habitat, nor, I imagine, the natural habitat of most of us. But we can stand it because the people stay the same, because of the bus driver who sees you running and waits for you, because of the postman who hails you as you pass him blocks away to tell you that you got that letter you've been waiting for, because of the state trooper who'll lend you the money to pay for your driver's license when you forget your pocketbook, because of the neighbors who bring you flower cuttings and some of their home-made jam, who save bones for your dog and are always there to comfort you or cheer you in time of trouble.

This doesn't make much of an exhibit for a World's Fair. Neither would a mountain stream and a hammock swung between spruce trees nearby. Neither would the sound of church bells on Sunday morning or the smell of a pot of turnip greens cooking or the spectacle of a barefooted 14-year-old girl struggling with a cake mix.

No, I guess it's just as well that the State Department didn't ask my help. I can't think of a single big, showy thing about America that means very much to me. And Congress sure wouldn't want to put out any money to exhibit the smell of turnip greens to the world.

Mrs. Weaver Is Wed To Frederick Buxton

Mrs. White Hancock of Atlanta announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hancock Weaver of Houston, Tex., to Frederick Arthur Buxton, son of Mrs. Dorothy Buxton and the late Frederick Arthur Buxton of Fort Worth, Tex.

The ceremony was quietly solemnized on Saturday at the home of the bride in Houston with the Rev. Charles Shedd of Memorial Presbyterian Church of Houston officiating in the presence of the immediate families.

Mrs. Jack B. Lyle of Birmingham was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Morgan Knott was best man for his cousin.

Following the nuptial service, Mrs. Hancock was hostess at a reception, with close friends of the couple attending. The bride is the daughter of the late Kerfoot Bowen Hancock of Atlanta.

After a wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. Buxton and his bride will reside at 5222 Bayou Glen Rd., Houston.

Guests from a distance attending the wedding were the bride's mother, Mrs. Hancock, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. White of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Knott and Mrs. Dorothy Buxton of Fort Worth.

Miss Kaplan Is Bride of Mr. Minsk

At a Sunday evening ceremony solemnized at the Progressive Club, Miss Shirley Kaplan, daughter of the Jacob Kaplans of Wrightsville and Atlanta, was married to Alvin Minsk, son of Mrs. Harry Minsk and the late Mr. Minsk.

Officiants were Rabbi Harry Epstein, Rabbi Sydney Mossman and Cantor Joseph Schwartzman.

Mr. Kaplan gave his daughter in marriage, and she was attended by Miss Irma Lefkoff as maid of honor. Her sisters, Mrs. Jerry Feldman and Mrs. Leon Beeber, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. David I. Kaplan, were her bridesmaids.

Malcolm M. Minsk was his brother's best man, and serving as his groomsmen were Donald Minsk, David I. Kaplan, Eli Kaplan, Abe Kaplan, Herbert Axelrod and Saul Feldman.

Jerry Feldman and Leon Beeber seated the wedding guests.

The bride chose a princess gown of Chantilly lace over peau de soie. Her veil of illusion was attached to a cap of matching lace and taffeta, and she carried a white satin-covered Bible adorned with white orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Ed L. Curlee Jr. of Savannah kept the bride's book. The bride's small nieces, Daryl Kaplan and Sharon Feldman, were flower girls, and her nephew, Joe Beeber, was ring bearer.

Firecrackers Loaded With Ice Cream, Fuse

By VIRGINIA DYSARD
Constitution Food Editor

All the children in the family and the whole neighborhood can have a firecracker this Fourth of July. Even with the fuse and all, mother won't have to worry about this firecracker. There will be no loud explosion in the house, unless it is the shouts of joy.

These firecrackers, loaded with ice cream instead of gunpowder, will give the children the safest, sanest Fourth of July celebration ever.

Have a couple of trays of ice cream ready in the refrigerator and treat a few of the neighbors and their children too.

Pile the ice cream in tall glasses—parfait glasses if you have them—and put a stemmed cherry on top for a fuse. Have ready rectangles of red paper, as wide as the height of the glass and long enough to go around it with a good overlap. Fasten the paper around the glasses with cellophane tape. And there are your firecrackers—safe, sane and delicious.

Strawberry ice cream will be perfect for the firecracker dessert, and for other ice cream coolers during the day try Fourth Fizz or Apple Lifter.

FRESH STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

- ½ cup (one-half 15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
- ½ cup water
- 1 can crushed strawberries
- ¼ cup sugar (about)
- 1 cup heavy cream

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Combine sweetened condensed milk and water. Chill. Sweeten strawberries to taste. Stir into milk mixture. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing tray. Cover tray with waxed paper. Freeze to a firm mush, about 1 hour. Turn into chilled bowl. Break up with fork, then beat with rotary egg beater until fluffy but not melted. Quickly return to tray, cover tray with waxed paper, return to freezing unit. Freeze until firm.

FOURTH FIZZ
MINTED PINEAPPLE SODA

- 1 recipe minted pineapple chiffon freeze
- 3 cups pineapple juice
- 2 (7-oz.) bottles carbonated water

Place 2 scoops of minted pineapple chiffon freeze in each of 6 tall glasses. Fill glasses half-full with pineapple juice. Add carbonated water, stirring constantly. Serve at once. Garnish with mint sprigs, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

MINTED PINEAPPLE CHIFFON FREEZE

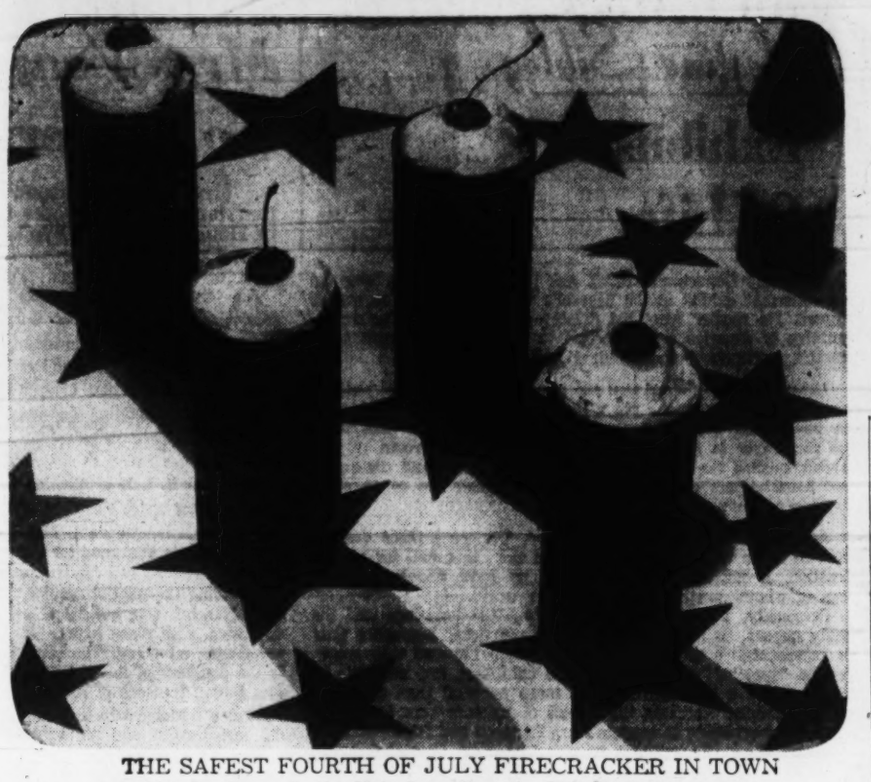

- ¼ lb. (16) marshmallows
- ½ cup water
- 1 (6-oz.) can frozen pineapple juice concentrate
- ⅛ tsp. mint extract
- Few drops green food coloring
- ½ cup ice water
- ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk crystals
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¾ cup sugar

Cut marshmallows in half. Place in saucepan. Add ½ cup water. Heat over medium heat until marshmallows are melted. Add pineapple juice concentrate, mint extract and green food coloring; mix well. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour ½ cup ice water into mixing bowl. Add instant crystals and whip until soft peaks form (about 3 to 4 minutes). Add lemon juice and whip very stiff (about 3 minutes). Gradually beat in sugar. Fold into pineapple juice mixture. Pour into refrigerator trays. Freeze until firm, about 3 hours. Makes about 1 quart.

APPLE LIFTER

- 1 cup milk
- ½ tsp. sugar
- ½ cup applesauce or apple juice
- ¼ tsp. vanilla
- Vanilla ice cream

Combine ingredients, except ice cream, in pint jar. Shake. Pour into tall glass. Top with ice cream and garnish with a dash of cinnamon or nutmeg if desired. Makes 1 serving.

Mighty Transistor Is 10 Years Old

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Ever hear of John Bardeen, Walter Brattain and William Shockley?

Probably not.

Yet 10 years ago Monday, these three men developed a tiny but remarkable device that has since revolutionized whole industries and affected an untold number of lives.

Jim Montgomery

Their brain-child is the transistor.

Smaller than a pencil eraser, this mighty midget daily grows in stature over the larger vacuum tube it was designed to replace.

Using but a small fraction of the power of an electron tube, it amplifies signals a hundred-thousand times.

A product of long and painstaking research, its still-growing impact on our civilization was signified by the award of the 1957 Nobel prize in physics to the three Bell Lab scientists who invented it.

It has brought consumers a wide variety of miniature equipment such as transistor radios and hearing aids, and has hastened missile and other space age developments.

Appropriately, one of the most important contributions was headlined in this 10th anniversary year, when transistors in the Explorer and Vanguard satellite transmitters relayed vital space data to earth-bound scientists.

MIGHTY TRANSISTOR SMALLER THAN A PENNY

A hint as to the transistor's future import—its fundamental role in further scientific developments—is contained in Encyclopedia Britannica's latest supplement on new words, to wit:

"Spacistor—An electronic device combining many significant features of the vacuum tube and transistor. About four pinheads by one in size, it amplifies much more than does the transistor at twice the temperature."

But the transistor may be making an even greater contribution—to the thinking of hard-headed businessmen.

For in launching a new electronics era, it has inescapably demonstrated the practical nature of greater private enterprise investment in basic scientific research.

WILL COUNSEL
Chess Lagomarsino

Lagomarsino Plans Own Office Here

Chess Lagomarsino, former publicity director of Davison-Paxon Co., who resigned early this year as president of Miami's Richard's department store, will open a sales promotion office here at 3393 Peachtree Rd., NE.

The new office, slated to open "immediately," will offer merchandising, advertising and public relations counseling service to retailers, manufacturers and service organizations, Lagomarsino said in announcing his plans.

A past president of both the Atlanta Exchange Club and Atlanta Advertising Club, Lagomarsino was affiliated with Davison's here for some 22 years prior to joining Detroit's J. L. Hudson Co. in 1950.

He served the Hudson firm as buyer, advertising manager and publicity director prior to joining the Miami firm in May 1956.

Can't Meet Foreign Competition Under U.S. Policies, Textiles Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—Textile industry spokesmen said Monday U.S. policies are making it impossible for them to meet foreign competition. They urged tightening of the Reciprocal Trade Extension Bill.

The spokesmen appeared before the Senate Finance Committee, which opened its final week of hearings on the House-passed measure requested by President Eisenhower.

The 24-year-old reciprocal trade law expires at midnight Monday but this will not affect existing trade agreements. It only makes it impossible for new pacts to be negotiated. There have been previous expirations of the law but Congress always has renewed it after a brief period.

TARIFF CUTTING

Most of the textile industry witnesses asked that the extension this time be limited to one or two years and that the President be given no new tariff-cutting powers, on at least severely limited powers.

Eisenhower asked for a five-year extension with additional authority to reduce tariffs 25 per cent. The House granted this in its bill.

Dan Daniel, assistant to the president of the Dan River Mills, Inc., Danville, Va., appearing for the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute, said his industry is subject to many government discriminations.

He said the principal foreign textile-producing nations not only have wage rates one-tenth of U.S. figures and labor standards far lower than this country's, but also have modern machinery brought in part with American aid.

As a final blow, he said, the United States sells surplus cotton abroad at a price 20 per cent below what the American mill must pay for it under the U.S. price-support systems.

W. Ray Bell, president of the Assn. of Cotton Textile Merchants, New York, said U.S. mills are trying to compete with Japan, where he said labor costs 15 to 20 cents an hour, and India and Hong Kong, where he said the rates are 9 to 10 cents.

Bell said the voluntary agreement worked out under which Japan agrees to restrict its imports has "benefited us to a degree."

DELEGATED ORIGINALLY

But he added that this agreement "means that authority to regulate our foreign commerce delegated originally by Congress to the President has in turn been delegated to a foreign country."

Robert T. Stevens, former secretary of the Army and president of J. P. Stevens & Co., a large textile concern, said that since the end of World War II employment in the U.S. textile industry has declined by 345,000 jobs, and 717 mills have been closed.

The industry's only problem is not foreign competition, Stevens conceded. But he said that imports of cotton textiles increased from 15,962,000 yards in 1947 to 122,444,000 in 1957.

NEW FORMULA

Solomon Barkin, research director for the AFL-CIO Textile Workers Union, urged the committee to adopt what he describes as a new formula to "reconcile the conflict between liberal traders and protectionists."

Tyre Taylor, general counsel for the Southern States Industrial Council, told the committee the Japanese textile manufacturer enjoys a net cost advantage over the U.S. manufacturers of about 5 cents a yard.

This results from lower labor costs and the cheaper price at which he can buy U.S. cotton, Taylor said.

"We're so glad you've taken the cottage next to ours, Doctor Kraft!"

Colonial To Purchase 7 Jacksonville Stores

Atlanta's Colonial Stores, Inc., has agreed to purchase effective July 26 seven supermarkets operated by the Jax Meat Co., in Jacksonville, Fla.

Terms of the proposed transaction were not disclosed in Monday's joint announcement by Colonial President Joseph Seitz and Jax President Julian E. Jackson.

The pending acquisition will boost to 466 the number of stores Colonial operates in 11 states. The 57-year-old grocery chain is a successor to the Pender stores and Rogers' stores which merged in 1940. Jackson will remain in an executive capacity with Colonial.

Mart Up 4th Day; Gains Moderate

Record Building Contracts, Defense Buying Have Weight

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market ran up its string of daily gains to four straight in active dealings. Key issues were ahead from fractions to a point or so. Some exceptions made wider gains. There was a scattering of losers.

Industrials carried the ball in the advance. Rails were mixed. Utilities barely nudged ahead on average but made a new high for the year in so doing.

It looked like a stalemate for the first couple of hours. Prices were mixed except for the assortment of lower-priced stocks—which have been in great demand lately. Around mid-session steels, aircrafts and electronics made strides—and prices picked up throughout the list. A final rally by oils put prices at their best of the day by the close.

The over-all gain was moderate. Market background included the record total of construction awards for May and a pickup in defense purchases by the government. A slowing of steel industry output and some uncertainty about the question of higher steel prices also were factors.

Penn-Texas was as high as 7½ during the day but was clipped late in the session. Among unconfirmed rumors affecting this stock was one that it was planning a distribution of its Fairbanks, Morse holdings. The latter stock was very inactive and unchanged.

American Motors benefited by reported higher sales of its Rambler car and an optimistic weekend statement about earnings by President George Romney.

Union Oil of California was ahead along with other leading oils but late in the day news came it had cut its dividend to 25 cents from 60 cents. The stock showed a net loss of 1⅜.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed. Volume was 1,010,000 shares compared with 870,000 on Friday. Gainers included Molybdenum, A&P and Arkansas Fuel Oil. Among losers were Humble Oil, Giant Yellowknife and Crowell-Collier.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—With many mills closed this week for the start of annual vacations, activity in the cotton textile market was limited Monday.

Light sales of print cloths were noted for nearby delivery. Some mills boosted asking prices on wide drills in the heavy industrial goods section by about half cent a yard. This action was attributed to diminishing mill inventories.

Dealers reported little business in the wool goods market.

In rayon goods filament fabrics were sold for nearby delivery with business on fill-in basis.

Mrs. Hiscox Dies; Settler's Descendant

Special to The Constitution

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for Mrs. Joseph W. Hiscox, who was the former Miss Grace Barricklo, a onetime Atlanta resident and descendant of pioneer Atlanta settlers.

Mrs. Hiscox, 74, died in a private hospital here Saturday.

A native of Baltimore, Mrs. Hiscox spent her early years in Atlanta, receiving her education there, and at the University of Tennessee. She was married to Mr. Hiscox, also of Atlanta, in 1901.

She was a granddaughter of Jonas S. Smith, one of the settlers of Marthasville, which later was to become Atlanta. He operated the first store on Whitehall street and served as one of Atlanta's early mayors and as sheriff and tax collector of Fulton County.

She is survived by her husband, a retired U. S. Department of Agriculture official who was federal commissioner for the California International Exposition in 1935-36; two children, Joseph W. Hiscox, with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Miss Nell Hiscox, principal of Janney School in Washington, and a granddaughter.

Relatives in Atlanta include Mrs. Elizabeth Giessler of 3884 Peachtree road, and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hiscox, 1253 Highland Ave., NE.

Claxton Editor Sanders Dies on Vacation Trip

CLAXTON (AP)—Brutus T. Sanders, editor and publisher of The Claxton Enterprise, died Monday morning en route to Pageland, S.C., for a week's vacation.

Funeral services will be held at 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Claxton Methodist Church. The Rev. Harold Raines and the Rev. James R. Reed will officiate. Burial will be in Brewton Cemetery.

Mr. Sanders was driving his family, Mrs. Sanders and two children, Ann and Gerald, to the South Carolina city when he suffered a fatal heart attack. The attack occurred at 9 a.m. about seven miles north of Statesboro.

Mr. Sanders moved to Claxton from Pageland in 1956 and had been connected with the Claxton weekly since that time. J. Fred Eden is associate publisher of The Enterprise.

Besides his wife and children, Sanders is survived by a brother, Dr. Gerald Sanders of Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear friend, Mr. Jesse H. Hanley, who passed away 10 years ago today.
"It's always pleasant to think of you
And I guess that's the reason why
You're in my thoughts so often
As the days and weeks go by.
So, naturally, when I saw this card,
Why, you came right to mind
Because it reads,
"To a Very Dear Friend"
And, of course,
You were just that kind!"
MRS. L. A. DAVISON.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my husband, Mr. Millard L. Roberts, who passed three years ago today, July 1, 1955.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	1 spade
2 hearts	2 spades	3 hearts	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Ace of hearts.

Today, we present a case in which a desperation lead combined with an unorthodox bid to provide declarer with the clues required to land an almost hopeless game contract.

When East failed to keep his partner's heart bid alive it was naturally up to South to act. The conventional procedure with this holding is to make a take-out double.

It was a moral certainty in view of the opening bid that if North and South were to score game it could be only in spades. If South made the orthodox double North might respond in the major suit and then the king of hearts would come down in dummy and be attacked in the opening lead.

South therefore decided to bid one spade. West rebid partner's pass and North offered a raise. East and South continued the competition but North's final raise to game was overly ambitious.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued with the queen, putting declarer in with the king. The first problem was the play of the trumps. Holding nine of the suit, the normal procedure is to play for the drop but South made an interesting deduction at trick one.

The lead of the ace of hearts marked East with the king of diamonds despite his pass, for if West had held the ace and king of diamonds he would hardly have been up against the extremity of having to lead from the ace-queen of hearts.

Since East is known to have the king of diamonds, it is hardly likely that he will also show up with the queen of spades since with that honor holding he would probably have kept the bidding open.

Declarer therefore cashed the king of spades, followed with the 10 and, when West played low, permitted it to ride. After mopping up the trumps, declarer refused the club finesse, dropping the blank king of clubs with his ace on the same line of reasoning that induced him to finesse in trumps. Two diamonds were discarded from dummy on the long clubs, permitting South to score an overtrick.

KEEP WELL

By THEODORE VAN DELLEN

Lice a Problem If Typhus Is Near

Lice on the hair or skin are more embarrassing than serious, provided typhus is not in the neighborhood. This disease is transmitted by the louse and is a severe threat when it breaks out in a community.

TODAY'S HEALTH HINT— Children's emotional troubles usually reflect the emotional troubles of their parents.

The louse or its eggs may be passed directly from person to person through close contact or the use of contaminated clothing, combs, brushes, towels, or bedding. Even a physician may acquire these critters accidentally when making a house call on infested patients.

A child afflicted with these parasites may disrupt an entire school. Youngsters are chummy and the infested boy or girl ought to stay home until cured.

It is surprising how apathetic some families can be. Irresponsible parents neglect the vermin, saying, "It was caught at school and should be treated by the school." They leave the delousing job to the health department.

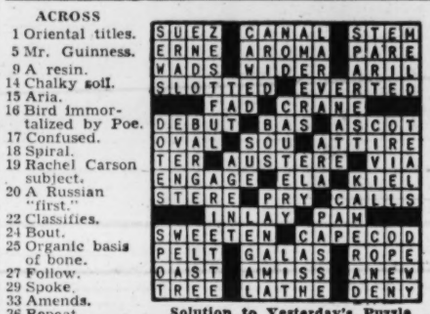

Recently Dr. John Gardner reported that one application of a new shampoo eliminated all lice and nits from the hair of 83 per cent of a group of 47 children.

The remainder were cleared after one or two additional washings. The shampoo is a mixture of gamma benzene hexachloride and a detergent.

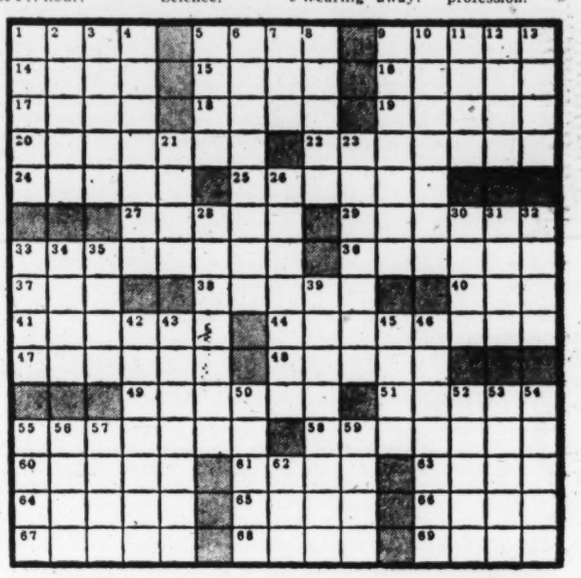

A dusting powder containing 10 per cent DDT eradicates lice within 10 minutes but not the nits. This substance is not harmful unless swallowed. Other members of the family should be examined, too.

RHYME A DAY

By OLLIE REEVES

"Within 50 years people will be making vacation trips to the moon."

—'Science' Magazine Article Quote.

A wise old man once told me that . . . he was convinced the world was flat . . . and if you traveled far enough . . . you'd tumble down some rocky bluff . . . and that would be the end of you . . . and strangely, I thought it was true.

Later, I learned that he was wrong . . . the world is neither broad nor long . . . it's round and shaped much like a ball . . . and if you tried you couldn't fall . . . you're held by that mysterious force . . . that holds this planet on its course.

Since I was wrong the first time, then . . . it could be I am wrong again . . . it's possible that it is square . . . but that is none of my affair . . . regardless of the shape it's in . . . how will they begin . . . that journey into unknown space . . . that they will find a better place.

All that is much beyond our reach . . . a week's vacation at the beach . . . is all most of us can afford . . . and when they holler, "all aboard . . . the big-vacation-rocket-ship" . . . don't get moon-burned on your trip . . . and don't come back to us complaining . . . "every day it kept on raining."

Politics and Revivals Come at Lay-By Time

Why do Georgians have their revivals, homecomings, family reunions and politics in July and August? Well, anyone with a rural background can tell you—it's lay-by time.

Lay-by time in Georgia means that period when the cotton and corn have been cultivated to their fullest, but the crop is not matured enough for harvest. The actual time will vary with sections of the state, of course, but it is a time when the farmer used to have a little free time.

The change-over in crops from absolute dependence on row crops to a more diversified farming makes the farmer busy all year, but the old customs hang on—so politics and revivals both wax hot under the July and August suns, and cotton is really "doing about."

Knack for Description

Georgians in rural areas and small towns have a knack for description which is only equalled by Texans. John Robinson of Jefferson, says of Atlanta traffic, "I don't like to go to Atlanta. Folks are too far behind in their hauling!"

Bros Porter of Oconee County, telling tales of hard times during the depression, "Why, we used to have a thousand different things for dinner—all of them field peas!"

And others like "useless as a whistle on a plow"; of a buck-toothed boy—"he could eat an ear of corn through a picket fence"; or "grinning like a jackass eating briars."

The bucolic scene seems to lend its earthiness to such descriptions. City folks depend on sophisticated descriptions; rural folks get down to earth. One thing, you never wonder what country folks mean.

Baptizing Preacher Can't Swim

Hovie Lister, Baptist preacher and TV star, says one of his biggest occupational hazards at this revival time of year in Georgia is that he can't swim. He was talking just before a baptizing in a lake in Cobb County.

"Just beyond those stakes there," he said, pointing, "there is a 10-foot hole. If I slip in that, I'd really be in a mess. But my brother is here in swimming trunks—just in case. He's six feet four inches tall, and what skill he lacks in swimming he makes up in wading."

Potpourri

Newly elected Georgia diplomates of the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery include Charles Freeman, Augusta; Robert Wells, Atlanta; George Whatley, Columbus, and L. E. Dickey, Macon.

Gourmets take note: Bonnell Aiken, hotel man of Blairsville, says that the supply of sourwood honey is good this year.

YOUR STARS TODAY

Daily Guide—There is a high peak of the moon's tidal effect on emotions and energy today, so avoid excessive talk, distractions and noise. The Capricornians, Arians, Librans and Cancerians may note the strongest tendencies to react to this full moon. They should make their plans for the coming holiday carefully, avoiding activities too strenuous for safety. This applies particularly to those born around Oct. 12 and April 9.

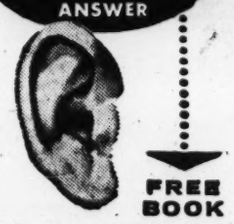

The afternoon holds some friction. This is the best time to make plans for the next few days. Those planning holiday trips should be warned to get the details worked out so as to avoid last-minute jams.

Get an early start tomorrow on paper work, calls or travel.

Happy Birthday, Cancer: Immediate events coming along this month could be highly stimulating, but you may need to use caution around the 9th when the temptation to overexpand could be costly. The prospects are for a social summer with romance for those eligible.

Those who are in the arts or theater should develop their talents now while the aspects are favorable for self-expression. The first week in September could bring a high peak of accomplishment. Use new ideas for earning, especially around the 10th of this month.

Chiang Appoints New Premier

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—President Chiang Kai-shek Monday accepted the resignation of Premier O. K. Yui and appointed Vice - President Chen Cheng to succeed him in Nationalist China's second most powerful post.

Political observers said Chen's appointment to the premiership may be a move to groom him for the presidency when Generalissimo Chiang's second term ends in 1960.

The government announcement issued Monday night gave no reasons for the resignation of Yui.

Yui, a banker, had submitted his resignation five times in the past year but on each occasion Chiang refused it.

Health Center Here Trains Visitors From Far Places in New Techniques

By LEWIS SMITH

You name the country and chances are it is represented in the United States Communicable Disease Center's training program for foreign visitors conducted in its Atlanta headquarters.

Taking part in a joint engineering, health training program for five weeks this summer are 38 representatives from countries including Peru, Honduras, Vietnam, Surinam, Lebanon, Poland, Zanzibar, Formosa, Thailand and the Philippines.

Foreign officials here to receive instruction are divided into two groups, engineering and health. Those studying the latest techniques in sanitary engineering are taken to Chamblee where they are given practical field problems to solve in sanitation. Doctors composing the health group attend classes on new developments in disease control at the center and are then sent into the field for an additional two weeks to observe applied classroom principles at local Georgia health departments.

"Most of the doctors have a pretty good grasp of English," says Joseph Borches, training officer, "but they understand the language much better than they can communicate in it."

A husband and wife team from French West Africa have solved the language barrier problem in their engineering course. Jean F. H. Francotte, who is formally enrolled in the program, does not understand English well enough to profit from his course, so his wife patiently attends all her husband's lectures with him, takes notes and later translates them into French.

According to Borches, most of the visiting doctors are high officials in health agencies of their countries. Several hold positions comparable to our surgeon general, a post which is called "director general of health" in most countries. "Recently we have had visitors in this post from New Zealand, France and Ceylon, and the director general from Lebanon is due soon," he said.

In addition to giving the visitors formal training, the CDC volunteers its services for very practical everyday matters. "We like to give them some idea how we live here, so we arrange for them to stay in homes and boarding houses in Atlanta," Borches explained. "We also help them cash checks; most of them come here with very little cash on hand and one of their most perplexing problems is with the banks here.

"One other thing we like to do is provide a social basis on which the visitors can get to know each other as individuals," Borches said. "They're not just concerned with diseases but in each other and our way of life."

Dr. Lupo Carlota, studying here under a World Heath Organization fellowship from the Philippines Department of Health, says he will take back new procedures learned here and apply them to the five-year rural public health program which is under way in his country. "This is a part of my world tour of health agencies," he said. "So far I have been in Puerto Rico, Central America and Mexico. After I leave here I'll visit agencies in Europe and Asia on the way home."

Explaining problems of the contemporary health officer in various countries, Borches said, "the world has become so small and traffic between countries has increased so much, we can no longer be concerned only with diseases of our own localities. Yellow fever and malaria have been stamped out here but it is still important for us to keep up with these diseases where they are still prevalent . . . just in case.

"Our communicable disease program for visitors is a part of this, a give and take proposition. We don't just give, we also receive valuable information from our visitors and by sending our own doctors to observe conditions in their countries. This way we all keep up to date."

Teach Her To Make a Wise Choice

QUESTION: My daughter is about to marry a man who is not a Christian. I feel I must stop the marriage but don't know what I can do. Should I just show her the Bible forbids such marriages?—N. F.

ANSWER: Isn't it a little late for you to begin to instruct your daughter about such things? There is little you can do now, for no matter what you do, it will be construed as interference. You should have taught her the Christian view of marriage before she had any prospect of marriage, for then she would have been able to make a wise decision.

The Bible teaches that "the aged women be reverent in demeanor, not slanderess nor enslaved to much wine, teachers of that which is good; that they may train young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be chaste, workers at home, kind, being in subjection to their own husbands that the word of God be not blasphemed." (Titus 2:3.)

Had you fulfilled your responsibility when your daughter was growing, you would not have that problem now.

Yet, I would suggest that you have a heart-to-heart talk with her—then have prayer with her. Commit it to God. He can change the situation even at this late date.

Bass High Enrolling Crafts Students

Registration for the 19th annual session of the Bass Music and Recreation School will be conducted through Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon each day.

The three-week school will begin July 7 with sessions in band, dramatics, woodshop, printshop, handicrafts, cooking, sewing, dancing, typing and games.

The school is open to those over 10 years of age. Each participant can take three different activities.

Instructors will be high school teachers and staff members of the Atlanta Department of Recreation.

Classes will be conducted daily from 9 a.m. to 12:40 p.m. The Friday schedule will include a 45-minute assembly program for displaying products of the creative activity classes. These assemblies will be open to the public.

Operating the school are the Atlanta Board of Education and recreation department. It is sponsored by the Bass Community Council and the Bass Youth Council.

The director is W. J. Scott, Bass High School principal.

A $2 fee will be charged each participant for the purchase of materials.
